CRISIS IN BALKANS IS NEAR

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Aug. 16.—That the Entente powers have granted Bulgaria's demands in order to gain that country's aid is the belief in Sofia, according to a dispatch from the Bulgarian capital to the German Journal.

"The note of the Quadruple Entente is kept secret, but it is believed the demands of the Bulgarian government are granted," says the dispatch.

By HERBERT TEMPLE,
European Manager of the International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 16. — The meetings of the Serbian and Greek parliaments in Nish and Athens today are expected to go far in solving the Balkan riddle and in determining whether the conflagration of war shall include Bulgaria and Greece.

At Bucharest, a special meeting of the Roumanian cabinet was held at the command of King Ferdinand. German influence in Roumania is strong and the cabinet is split into factions.

By opening a terrific bombardment against Belgrade with the mightiest guns in the Teutonic armies, the Austro-German forces have called into prominence their recent threats to cut a path through Serbia for the double purpose of cowing the Balkan States now neutral and of opening the way to send war supplies to the hard-pressed Turks at the Dardanelles.

All along the Danube front there is increasing activity. The Germans and Austrians are reported to have an army of nearly 500,000 men massed there. It is believed an effort will be made to occupy Belgrade. The military value of the Serbian capital is slight, but the political effects of its capture by the Teutonic allies would be far-reaching.

Although high hopes are expressed that Bulgaria and Greece will be lined up with the powers of the Triple Entente, there is an undercurrent of pessimism here and there is a feeling in many quarters that German diplomacy has won at least a temporary victory in Balkan negotiations.

Bulgaria is standing firm upon her demands to Greece and Serbia that territory in Macedonia be ceded to her. Bulgaria has never acquiesced in the retention of Saloniki by Greece, and she feels that she was wrongly deprived of a considerable extent of territory by the treaty of 1912.

Bulgarian statesmen feel they were tricked into ceding territory to Roumania at the time of the second Balkan war. In addition to all these influences, Bulgaria is angry at Russia for the aid she gave Serbia and Roumania at that time.

A Bulgarian envoy who has been in Constantinople upon a diplomatic mission, has been recalled to Sofia, but there are no circumstances attending the incident to warrant the belief that Bulgarian-Turkish negotiations have been broken off.

A well informed neutral with extensive experience of continental diplomacy, holds the opinion that Berlin has succeeded in countering the combined efforts of London, Paris, Petrograd and Rome.

"Possibly," he said today, "the efforts at combination would be a truer phase."

WOMAN PROSTRATED BY HEAT TODAY

One way to beat the mercury at its own game. If you aren't at the beach, try the nearest lake, river—or bath tub. The higher the thermometer, the lower you go in the water.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer at the Weather Bureau reached 88, equaling the maximum temperature yesterday and Saturday, which made today one of the three "second hottest" days of the year.

The humidity at 2 p. m. was 74, which was just above normal.

The record for this Summer is held by July 15, when the mercury reached 90.

"Fair and somewhat cooler" is the prediction for tomorrow.

Mrs. Annie Silver, thirty, was overcome by the heat in her home at No. 184 Harvard street, East Boston. Painters in hoisting their ladder outside the house noticed Mrs. Silver seated near the window holding an infant. They thought she was dead and called up the Relief Station.

The ambulance made a record trip. Mrs. Silver was unconscious. They revived her and took her to the hospital.

4 LIVES LOST IN HURRICANE IN THE GULF

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Pinning their hopes to the Weather Bureau's statement that the West Indian hurricane which has been lashing the gulf of Mexico for several days will spend its greatest force close to the Louisiana-Texas line and that Galveston will escape, thousands of people of the Texas city are reported watching the mountainous seas batter down the long approaches to the numerous bath houses on the water front.

As noon approached the wind increased in fury, while advices from points to the east indicated a gale of seventy-five miles an hour.

Four lives are reported lost along the coast thus far and many vessels are overdue.

Dispatches today from Beaumont and Port Arthur indicated that those cities were being evacuated by the people, who feared the country around them would be inundated by a tidal wave. Interurban trains between those cities and Houston ran all night and were crowded to capacity, and the same scenes were being enacted today.

In Galveston all hotels were crowded with people who feared to remain in their homes near the beach.

E. H. McKinney, Jr., member of a yachting party, was drowned on Lake Pontchartrain in Louisiana when his boat capsized; Charles Borgens was killed at Waveland, Miss., when an electric light wire was blown down on him, and two men were washed overboard from the battleship New Hampshire and drowned off the Florida coast.

Numerous steamships are reported from twenty-four to forty-eight hours overdue at New Orleans, and while there is much anxiety over their safety, it is believed that many of them were merely blown out of their courses and will be heard from later.

The United States gunboat Sacramento, with the Brazilian Minister to Mexico on board, is safe at the mouth of the Mississippi. The storm is so heavy at the passes that the Sacramento cannot be seen from shore, but she sent a wireless that all was well on board.

Swallows Her False Teeth; Woman May Die

Miss Hattie Kehoe, 27, of Swampscott, is at the Union Hospital in Lynn today in a dangerous condition, following an operation for the recovery of her false teeth.

Miss Kehoe swallowed the teeth about six weeks ago, but did not tell of the occurrence until last Friday. She was rushed to the hospital, where an X-ray showed the teeth resting in her stomach.

Dr. Charles Judkins and Dr. J. H. Grant immediately performed an operation. Another one may be performed next week.

DOG THAT BIT 8 FOUND TO HAVE HAD RABIES

Eight persons bitten by the mad dog in Cambridge and Somerville were today submitted to the first course in the Pasteur treatment.

That the dog had rabies has been shown by a test made for the State Department of Animal Industry.

Commissioner McLaughlin of the State Department of Health, said today the treatment was begun by the local boards of health, co-operating with the State department. Dr. Frank L. Morse of Somerville, a former district health officer of the board, is in charge of the treatment.

The names of the eight persons were given out today by Dr. Lester Howard, head of the Department of Animal Industry, as follows:

Henry Bremihan of No. 212 Pemberton street, Male O'Brien of No. 55 Norris street, Fred Bulcer of No. 43 Hawley street, and Frank J. Jones of No. 61 Yorktown street, all of Cambridge, and Carl E. Carlson of No. 8 Herbert street, David A. Bowers of No. 11 Chester place; Ernest Taylor of No. 93 Cedar street, and H. E. Field of No. 29 Ellington road, all of Somerville.

MEASURES TAKEN FOR RELIEF

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—While diplomacy is being exhausted in an effort to settle peacefully the Mexican trouble, more than 400 Americans literally are starving in Mexico City, so sense in their situation that 120 of the have asked that they be sent back to the States and will abandon their property there if this is done.

Other Americans in similar plight insist on remaining in their homes and have demanded that the United States see that they are fed and protected.

As a result of this demand the State Department, following a conference today between Secretary Lansing and President Wilson, directed that Consul Silliman make urgent representations to Carranza.

The first chief will be asked to see that food stuffs are sent forward from Vera Cruz immediately and the American consular agents will be directed to send some one with the train, so that the food will reach those for whom it is intended. Meanwhile, in response to the representations of the United States, the Bishop of Vera Cruz, arrested by order of the Carranzista military governor there, was released, according to a report received from Silliman.

TO BE GIVEN TIME.

Following his conference with President Wilson, Secretary Lansing stated that no publicity will be given the replies made to the joint peace appeal sent to the Mexican leaders. The reason for this, he said, was that the Latin-American diplomats who joined the United States in the effort to arrange a peace conference believe that the replies should be withheld from the public until all have had an opportunity to act.

Secretary Lansing stated that the offer of mediation in the appeal was to be read literally. Any of the South American diplomats was willing to go to Mexico and confer with the factions and arrange the conference along lines that would be satisfactory to the majority.

The appeal so far seems to have fallen on deaf ears. Villistas forces, heavily armed, are moving from Villa Gravia, 20 miles from Monterey, preparing to meet an attack about to be launched by the entire forces of General Obregon, under his personal command. The Obregon forces are said to number 15,000, under command of Generals Hernandes and Raoul Madero.

BORDER SITUATION UNCHANGED.

The general situation along the border is unchanged. The American forces in the Brownsville district have been strengthened and are now able to cope with any attack that may be delivered, either by organized or unorganized Mexican forces. Two aeroplanes will fly over the district along the river and it is expected that they will be able to locate any insurgent bands that try to cross into American territory.

President Wilson today called off the regular meeting of the Cabinet tomorrow, as it was said matters in hand would require conferences and individual members rather than the full body.

Governor of Kansas Coming for Conference

Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas today accepted the invitation of Governor Walsh to attend the Governors' conference in Boston August 24 to 27.

Governor Elliott W. Major of Missouri will come, accompanied by a delegation of St. Louis "hosiers," who hope to take the conference to St. Louis next year.

Edward A. Fitzpatrick of Madison, Wis., secretary of the National Conference on Universities and Public Service, which will be held at the same time as the Governors' conference, arrived in Boston today and conferred with Governor Walsh on the arrangements.

The Governor also met subcommittees who will assist in plans for the entertainment of the visiting chief executives.

May Use Price of Land on Streets

Mayor Curley called a special meeting of the Council today, to seek permission for the city to sell the old Probate Court site to the trustees of the Kimball Building for $475,000, and to ask permission to suspend that part of the city ordinance that requires money received from the sale of land to be applied to the sinking fund. Mayor Curley proposes to spend the $475,000 in rebuilding down town streets.

Hold Two After Affray on Beach

Dorfic Aboud and Anthony Wasshiek of No. 86 Hudson street, Boston, were arraigned before Special Justice Cutler in the Chelsea Court on the charge of assaulting John J. Murphy with intent to kill on the Revere Beach boulevard Saturday night. Murphy is at the Frost Hospital with a stab wound in his breast, but will probably recover. The men pleaded not guilty and were held till August 24 in $2,000.

Prize Court to Sit on Pass of Balmaha

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—A German prize court is going to decide the legality of the seizure of the American bark Pass of Balhaha by a German submarine commander. Consul Morgan at Hamburg notified the State Department today that the vessel's cargo of cotton is being unloaded at the German port of stegeestemund.

Skull Fractured In Family Mixup

Daniel Carpino, 22, is in the Brockton Hospital with a fractured skull and Nicholas Thomas and Peter Thomas are under arrest at Sharon today.

According to the police, Carpino, who married a daughter of Nicholas Thomas, visited his father-in-law, and quarreled with Peter Thomas, his brother-in-law.

Minister Held for Murder Is Suicide

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 16.—Silas Eversole, a minister who was arrested last week, charged with the murder of Hazel Macklin, committed suicide in jail here this morning. Hazel Macklin's body was found in a vault at a park on the outskirts of South Bend a year ago.

JAIL TERM FOR ONE RIOTER

Police guards at the Commonwealth docks today declared that at roll call last night they were reprimanded for not "using their revolvers more freely" in quieting the disorder at the pier yesterday.

Harbor and land police today established a strong guard over the German liners Amerika and Cincinnati, following the disturbance yesterday when a crowd of several thousand men and women marched to Commonwealth Pier to bid bon voyage to 1,400 Italian reservists who sailed on the White Star liner Canopic for Italy.

At the request of the Port Directors and of Captain Carl Tesdorpf, marine superintendent of the Hamburg-American line in Boston, Superintendent Crowley acting Police Commissioner, assigned police details to protect the German steamships.

The Kronprinzessin Cecilie, the big German "treasure ship" at East Boston, is also being guarded, as are the German steamships at anchor in the lower harbor.

CROWDS AT CONSULATE.

The Italian consulate, at No. 15 Exchange street, was thronged from the moment the doors opened today by Greater Boston Italians of military age, who were eager to join the Italian army.

According to Vincent J. Bruno, an attache of the consulate, 450 were enrolled before 3 p. m. A big crowd gathered about the consulate, including many women. Wives, with infants in their arms, accompanied their husbands to the consulate and urged them to enlist.

Many men who signed the lists, afterwards stated that they did so at the patriotic solicitation of their wives and sisters.

The small force at the consulate were working in their shirtsleeves all day, going without their mid-day meal, in order to enroll as many as came forward, but there was a long line waiting when the time came to close the doors.

The attaches decided not to close, but kept on at their task until the last man was enrolled.

The next ship from Boston to Italian ports sails on August 21 and it was said at the consulate that at least 1,000 men destined for the Italian battleront would take passage on the ships.

Captain Lee of the D street station sent a squad of officers to patrol the Commonwealth piers and shed, and the dock and customs departments have additional guards. Lieutenant Ross A. Perry of Station 8, harbor master, instructed the police boat Watchman to patrol the slips and approaches to prevent any attack on the German steamships from the water side.

RIOTER SENTENCED.

Tony Galla, arrested in the course of yesterday's disturbance, was found guilty by Judge Dowd in the Municipal Court today of assaulting Patrolman James McKenna of the Hanover street station with a rock and was sentenced to serve six months at Deer Island. He appealed and was held in $1,000 f.. the Superior Court.

Petro Galliti, charged with assaulting Guiseppe Aprile with a knife with intent to kill during the rioting, pleaded not guilty and was held for a hearing on Friday.

Captain Tesdorpf, in explaining his appeal for guards, said today:

"As a result of yesterday's trouble, I asked the Boston police today to help protect the liners Cincinnati and Amerika and our other property from further attack.

"I feared that feeling aroused by yesterday's disturbance might influence men to come alongside in small boats and damage the ships, and on that account sought the aid of the harbor police.

"We wish to have the liners safeguarded on the water side. They have guards on board and the guards have been increased since yesterday."

ASK GUARD ON PIER.

James T. McDonald, superintendent of the Commonwealth Pier, said:

"The rioters yesterday caused a damage of $500 to the dock premises. They smashed forty-seven windows and damaged fixtures. I am to make my report to the Port Directors, and in that shall suggest that the dock be better protected owing to the conditions and feelings displayed in yesterday's outbreak."

There was criticism today in official circles for allowing so large a crowd to parade through the streets on Sunday and to gather in such large numbers near the German liners.

The police department declared permits for parades are granted at City Hall, and that it was only up to the police to see that the crowds were authorized to march and to preserve order.

Mayor Curley stated that no permit was issued through his office.

Secretary J. J. O'Callaghan, of the Board of Street Commissioners, quoted the law regarding parades and processions, and admitted that the permit had been issued by him after the route had been agreed upon unanimously by the commissioners.

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley, acting police commissioner, said:

"On August 7 the street commissioners sent to police headquarters an order signed by J. J. O'Callaghan, secretary of the street commissioners, authorizing the Italian reservists to parade.

"After this permit was issued I had the stations in the districts through which the parade was to go notified, and instructions were given to the superior officers. These stations included 1, 2, 4 and 6."

Five Italians arrested during the riot were arraigned today before Judge Logan in South Boston and their cases were continued until Friday. Each was held in $1,000. The defendants are Michael Costa, No. 23 Charter street; Peter Shanaatte, No. 135 Richmond street; Ceasar Angiolette, No. 242 Cambwise street; Francesco Cretafano, who lodges in the North End, and Anthony Sprangatto of No. 9 South street.

Some of the prisoners were cut and bruised and several patrolmen from the Broadway station bore evidence of their encounter. Patrolman Murdo McDonald was in court with a broken arm in a sling. Special Officer Henry Nash had an injured leg.

DENY JURISDICTION OVER GERMANS WHO WORK IN SHOPS ASHORE

Immigration authorities in Boston today, when told of a complaint made at a meeting of the Boston Central Labor Union that sailors from the German ships now tied up in the harbor were working at various trades in Greater Boston, explained that the sailors had not all Federal requirements for landing, and that the officials were unable to act in the matter, as there was no law to cover the case.

This statement was made at the office of Immigration Commissioner Skeffington.

"Perhaps we may think of the practice of allowing the German sailors to live on the ships and work on shore in competition with citizens who have board to pay and other expenses, there is no Federal statute to cover the case.

"These sailors, stewards, mechanics, etc., made application in the regular way for admission to the United States. They go back and forth to work from the ships every day, and we have no jurisdiction over the matter."

Bay State Naval Militia on Cruise

The U. S. S. Chicago, carrying 125 members of the Massachusetts Naval Militia, left port early today. Down the bay the militia will be transferred to the U. S. S. Kearsarge, which has on board the Third Battalion of the New York Naval Reserves. The Kearsarge and the Kentucky, on which are the naval reserves from Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island, will proceed to Tangier Sound, Maryland, to conduct evolutions and target practice.

TEUTONS BREAK RUSSIAN LINES ON BUG; NEAR BREST-LITOVSK

By FREDERICK WERNER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—(via wireless)—German troops have broken through the Russian lines from the Narew to the Bug River, it was officially announced today in a report from the general staff. The advance of the Teutonic troops is now expected to move much more rapidly.

In their combined progress south of the Narew River the Germans have captured the towns of Lozice and Miedzyrzec, while Field Marshal von Mackensen's army has occupied Chelm and Siawatyzce, east of Wlodawa.

Von Mackensen is striving to get east of Brest-Litovsk and cut off the Russian retreat in that region.

The left wing of the army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, the general staff also reports, has crossed the Bug River east of Drogiczyn. From this point the Bavarians can strike at Brest-Litovsk.

Hard fighting continues at Kovno. The Russian garrison is being worn down, as the Germans claim the capture of 1,700 more prisoners there.

NOVO GEORGIEVSK INVESTED.

Fierce fighting is apparently in progress at Novo Georgievsk, the Russian Gibraltar in Poland. The report states that the Russian defenders have been driven back from their outer fortifications. The fortress is completely invested, with between 40,000 and 50,000 troops inside.

The general staff's report follows:

"Western theatre.—North of Ammertzweiler and northeast of Zammerkirch, a French attack broke down under our fire in front of our entanglements.

"Eastern theatre.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army, during successful attacks on the advanced positions at Kovno, captured 1,730 Russians, including seven officers, yesterday.

"The projected attempt to break through the Russian lines from the Narew to the Bug, after the successful crossing of the Narew, succeeded. Our crossing is complete from the Bug to the Bug.

More than 5,000 prisoners were taken.

CROSS BUG RIVER.

"The defenders of Novo Georgievsk were driven back still farther from their groups of fortifications.

"During the night the left wing of the army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria fought its way across the Bug, east of Drogiczyn, after the centre and right wings had captured Lozice and Miedzyrzec.

"The opponents offered new resistance in the sectors of Toosnaw and Khikowko only. Between Miedzyrzec and Biala, their resistance was broken down so that the Silesian Landwehr progressed east of Lozice at daybreak and pursued the enemy.

"The pursuit by Field Marshal von Mackensen's army continued. Cialc Siwatyzce was occupied. East of Wlodawa our troops are advancing on both banks of the Bug."

$15,000,000 War Order for Lynn

John J. Madden, Lynn promoter and real estate man, announced today that a $15,000,000 war order for shrapnel has been closed for Lynn.

A company backed by Boston banks will be organized to handle the order.

The shrapnel will be manufactured in plants in the vicinity of Lynn and Boston and between 2,000 and 5,000 men will be employed. The order calls for complete delivery before December 31, 1916.

FRANZ JOSEPH LAUDS POPE'S PEACE MOVE

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, has been hurriedly recalled to the Vatican from a health resort because of peace developments according to the Rome correspondent of the Paris Journal.

"It is repeatedly affirmed," the correspondent continues, "that Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria sent an autograph letter to Benedict XV., congratulating the Pope on his efforts in favor of peace, for which the Emperor also praises God.

"The peace campaign has been intensified among Catholics. Bishops from all countries have been asked to put their influence to that end."

The correspondent attributes the peace moves to Germany, adding:

"Socialists are being incited to organize an international peace conference, wherein Germans will participate. Deputy Margarit, secretary of the Socialist group, confirms these news, stating also that the German Socialists disapproved of the violation of Belgian neutrality and are willing that country should be surrendered."

Woman Is Hurt in Chelsea Car Crash

4 MEN FATALLY HURT IN FALL OF STAGING

BROCKTON, Aug. 16.—Four men were probably fatally hurt when a staging on top of the new Pythian Building on West Elm street broke today and dropped them forty feet. They fell on a pile of bricks.

The injured:

John Washburn, forty, foreman, No. 28 Wilmington street.

Arthur Holbrook, thirty-two years old, Riverside street.

Carl Woodward, forty-two, No. 23 Ford street.

James D. Carle, forty, Roan court.

The physicians at the Brockton Hospital said the skulls of all were fractured and that they could not recover.

The Pythian building, the new home of the Knights of Pythias, is a four-story structure, the walls of which are now being completed.

Three men working on a staging directly below on the third floor were warned by the breaking timbers just in time to jump into windows before the broken platform and its four victims came tumbling down, carrying the lower staging with it.

The men who escaped on the staging below were Joseph Richardson, Mark Manley and C. L. Cushman.

"Father of the Newsboys" Dead at Toledo, O

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 16.—John E. Gunckel, widely known as the "Father of Newsboys," founder of the National Association of Newsboys and for many years its president, died early today.

Mr. Gunckel's work for newsboys has attracted attention throughout the world. He took it up while a railway ticket agent, but about eight years ago he secured the aid of philanthropists and was enabled to devote his attention solely to ameliorating the condition of the little newspaper sellers.

As a result of his efforts $100,000 was raised in Toledo for a newsboys building.

British Liner Hit by Torpedo Reaches Port

TILBURY, Eng., Aug. 16.—The Nelson liner Highland Corrie, a British vessel of 7,583 tons, docked here today after a narrow escape from destruction by a German submarine at the mouth of the Thames River.

The Highland Corrie encountered the submarine at 1 a. m. Saturday. It was ordered to stop, but Captain T. M. Jacobs steered in a zig-zag course at full speed to get away. The submarine fired a torpedo that struck the steamer on the port side. By this time the Highland Corrie was getting near shore and the submarine abandoned the pursuit.

The steamer listed badly after it was struck, but part of the cargo was jettisoned and she was able to reach Tilbury.

The British fishing smack White City and the Norwegian steamer Alida were also sunk. The Swedish steamer Sverige was disabled and was beached.

Edward T. O'Neil, a Prominent Bostonian, Relates His Experience.

Plant Juice has been introduced into a number of great American cities and everywhere it has met with tremendous success. Plant Juice is purely an herbal remedy, and is proving the greatest ever produced. Once the public of a city tests it they know its merit and a great demand for it follows. It is particularly a tonic for city people where modern modes and customs of life lead to various forms of debility—to nervous, stomach, blood and kidney troubles—in fact, to a general run-down condition. Plant Juice tones up as does no other tonic. It gives immediate relief and lasting results. All forms of stomach, liver and kidney trouble and blood disorders are relieved by Plant Juice. It is a true specific for debility and organic weakness in men and women. It is sure to bring a return of buoyant spirits, of cheerfulness, and of good health.

Selecting at random from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mr. Edward T. O'Neil, a well-known resident of Greater Boston, having lived in this city all his life, at No. 21 Kent Court, Somerville, who says:

"I have suffered from rheumatism and catarrh in the head for years, also stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia. I could not eat potatoes or any vegetables or meat of any kind. My food fermented in my stomach, causing gas and a bloated condition. I was so lame from rheumatism that when I would get up from a chair I could scarcely get up again. In fact I suffered so badly I thought it had cancer, my blood was in such bad shape. Now I have taken Plant Juice for a few weeks and am truthfully say I am a cured man. I can eat any kind of food, have no more rheumatism or catarrh and am feeling like a new man. I can recommend Plant Juice to any one."

The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett Co.'s Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

CARDINAL SENDS CONVENTION A MESSAGE

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 16.—Expressing his sorrow at not being able to attend the sessions of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, Cardinal O'Connell, Boston, today sent a message of cheer to the delegates. This message was conveyed this afternoon by Monsignor M. J. Splaine of Boston.

Cardinal O'Connell said:

"The American Federation of Catholic Societies is primarily a work of Catholic laymen in the church, under the directions of her spiritual leaders. Amid all the shifting standards of society it is the church alone that remains fixed and immovable. Her principles are divine and her standards are eternal. The church is universal and its interests are for the happiness and betterment of all mankind. This same principle should be keynote of the deductions of the National convention."

T. E. SLATTERY MAKES ADDRESS.

At this afternoon's session Francis E. Slattery, Boston, delivered an address on the activities of the ostensible Archdiocesan Federation. He showed that practically every parish in Boston and its environs is represented in this convention. He dwelt upon the work thus far accomplished by the federation in Massachusetts.

The apostolic delegate, Monsignor Bonzano, extended a message of greeting to the convention this morning, prior to his departure for the East. Anthony J. Matre, St. Louis, national secretary, read his annual report, which occupied practically all of the morning session. He dwelt upon the work of the Federation in the past year in contradicting the distribution of anti-Catholic papers and pamphlets.

PEACE RESOLUTION.

A recommendation that the Federation adopt a resolution urging the restoration of peace of Europe and that Catholic organizations the world over be asked to participate in a universal request for peace was contained in the report, which concluded with the announcement that Pope Benedict had granted to all Federation members his apostolic benediction.

Affiliated with the federation, the report shows, are thirty national organizations and twenty-five Catholic institutions. Many of these new organizations are composed of natives of the country now at war, both alliances of the belligerents being represented.

New York City is a strong candidate for next year's meeting of the federation.

MARGARET ANGLIN PLAYS THRILLING GREEK CLASSIC

Miss Margaret Anglin, who was cheered by 10,000 persons when she appeared for the first time in the Greek classic, "Iphigenia in Tauris," at the Hearst Greek Theatre in the concrete stadium at the University of California. She will soon produce other Greek plays in the same amphitheatre.

By International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—Ten thousand persons cheered Margaret Anglin in "Iphigenia in Tauris" at the Hearst Greek Theatre. The great concrete stadium of the University of California could not have held a larger crowd. The night was perfect—warm and starlit.

The first of Margaret Anglin's thrilling Greek classics also memories of other similar occasions, when the huge stage has made the ancient tragedies live again, put a premium on every seat.

The Hearst Greek Theatre nestles in a hill directly behind the university campus, with a grove of eucalyptus trees fleeing above its walls. It has staged many unique performances, in some of which Miss Anglin herself has taken part. Artists never ask to play in this theatre, they are invited.

On the western edge of the amphitheatre, far from what used to be called the "centres of culture," this immense amphitheatre has come to be a mecca for art and its rostra—a roster of fame for artists. It is the "cultured acre" in America.

The occasion was particularly notable. Walter Damrosch conducted the orchestra. The music and the enthusiastic and abounding superlative salaams from the university's undergraduates combined to make the play beautiful.

Next Saturday night Miss Anglin will present another Euripides play and on the Saturday night following she will play Sophocles' "Electra."

Soon after 8.15 o'clock the action of the tragedy was begun. Mr. Damrosch arose before his orchestra at the north side of the amphitheatre and began the music he had composed for this play.

The orchestra took up the beautiful prelude, a melody for the flute sang out over the encircling tree tops. Then the soloist, Miss Merle Tillotson Alcock, a New York mezzo soprano, sang the prologue.

HUB'S ROOKIES SETTLE DOWN TO WORK

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Your Uncle Sammy's second busy week of making soldiers out of business men, including 287 busy Bostonians, began here today at the government's business-like camp of military instruction at the early business hour of 5.45.

To the last slinking Back Bay banker and the last young Brooks line broker the Boston "Rookies" were up, out and ready for business with the first ringing notes of the morning reveille.

With their first week of "soldiering" now over many of the Boston recruits are beginning to shape up like regular regulars. Several of them have already won their chevrons and are performing as sergeants and corporals in their respective companies.

Today the men were given their drills in close and extended formations, indicating the splendid progress they have already made. Target practice on the reservation range with service calibre shot was also started, many of the "Rookies" shooting like veterans of the Civil War.

"ROOKIES" ENJOY REST.

With all drills and routine suspended, yesterday was the first day of rest the "Rookies" have enjoyed since camp was established. Almost all of them, like good soldiers, went to church; others, however, improved their idle hours by improving their marksmanship on the rifle ranges just below the camp, where practice with sub-calibre shot has been in progress all week.

Several of the Boston contingent, including Privates Julian Codman and George S. Blake, secured a leave of absence and sallied forth on a sight-seeing trip. They returned at dewy eve to discover they had missed the best Sunday dinner of their military lives.

GUY IN MYSTERY TRIP.

What the stay-behinds sat down to yesterday was fricasseed chicken, mashed potatoes, stewed corn, green peas, sliced cucumbers, ice cream, ice cream frozen pudding, coffee and lemonade. Outside of that there was nothing to it, and the crowd was simply starved. Next to the dinner the biggest feature of the day was the rescue of a fourteen-year-old boy who fell into the lake by Privates Richard Guild, of Maine, and Richard Osborne, of Fall River, two members of Company E.

The day also had its little mystery. The automobile machine gun company, to which belongs coach Percy D. Haughton and several other prominent Bostonians, suddenly departed from camp in the early morning and did not return until midnight. The object of its strange mission was not made public. It was learned that the company had traveled nearly 100 miles.

Dudley Rodgers of Beverly, the crack polo player, has been made a corporal in Company E, and Conrad P. Richardson, of Brookline, has been advanced to the same rank in the cavalry troop.

LAVELLE A MAIL CLERK.

Assistant Quartermaster Lavelle, who is an orderly in Company H, is now dutifully "shagging" the daily mail for Dr. C. W. Rogers of Company F, who recently joined the medical corps, has now declared himself the commissary work instead.

Former Fire Commissioner Francis M. Carroll and Horace Fuller, "Buddies" in Company B, spent Sunday reconnoitering among the Plattsburg hills in a hired "Jitney."

Private Joseph Garceau, now a morning off and "hiked" uptown for a package of tacks with which to complete his equipment as an artillery army engineer.

Among the Boston "Rookies" who have been surprising the "Regulars" with their marksmanship are C. H. Coleman, John F. D'Arcy and George S. Silsbee, all of whom have scores of forty-five or better gained up to their credit on the camp bulletin boards.

Private Alf C. Turtle of Company F joined the engineers. Today he will start in by digging up the price of a sketchbook, a few thumb tacks and a lead pencil. This course will later include the building of pontoon bridges and fortifications. Just now, however, the "Rookie" engineers are building nothing but hopes.

LOSES HIS RIFLE.

Private J. W. Worthington of Cohasset is mourning the loss of his rifle, unless it later turns up he will go back to Boston unarmed at present.

It was announced at the camp headquarters today that an invitation had been extended many of the prominent "Rookies" here to visit the Canadian mobilization camp at Montreal. It is expected that several will make the trip some time this week.

The work of inoculating the men, begun Saturday, will be completed today. Thus far 500 have been treated. The inoculation is compulsory only with the "Rookies" under forty-five. Almost every man in camp, however, has taken the treatment as a matter of personal precaution.

Several of those who were given inoculation against typhoid fever yesterday reported to Captain Darby this morning and were given treatments for the resulting reaction. H. D. Chandler of Boston had a severe reaction and failed to show up at both breakfast and dinner. Captain Darby also had several of the regulars on the sick list for the day.

Richard D. Olie of Mecwaboc, Me., and Richard Osborne of Fall River went out to the Hotel Champlain links to play golf. One of their caddies sliced his ball so he ran around to get a ball and went over his head. The other caddy attempted to rescue him, and also got beyond his depth. The two soldier-golfers dove into the lake and rescued their caddies, and as a result returned to the camp drenched.

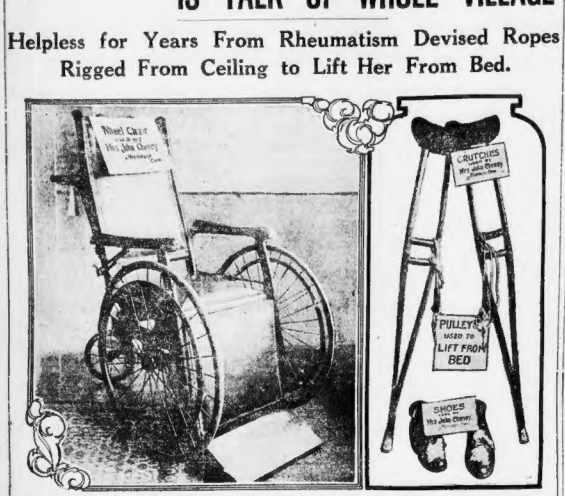
WOMAN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY IS TALK OF WHOLE VILLAGE

Helpless for Years From Rheumatism Devised Ropes Rigged From Ceiling to Lift Her From Bed.



The little town of Moosup, Conn., situated a few miles from Providence, is all agog over what they consider almost a miracle in the recovery of one of their town's people, Mrs. Fanny A. Cheney.

Hearing of the story, several people from Boston journeyed to the village to get the facts direct. There was no difficulty in finding Mrs. Cheney's home, as it was pointed out immediately on inquiry.

A lady perhaps some fifty odd years met us at the door, and when asked for, Mrs. Cheney smilingly invited us in and good-naturedly informed us that she was Mrs. Cheney. "So you came to see me about my case; everyone in Moosup is talking about it, and I am not surprised, for I have been an invalid a long time.

"I suffered from rheumatism of the joints for five years. I believe every joint in my body was affected. My hands, wrists, knees, feet were swollen from a chalky deposit and I was helpless. Physicians wanted to operate on me and try to remove the deposit. My legs were drawn up so that they could not be straightened, and to have anyone lift me from the bed was agony unbearable. For one year I did not leave the bed without assistance. How helpless I was and what I suffered only God and myself know.

"The rector of St. Alban's Church in Danielson knows my condition, for he called on me while I was confined to bed for the purpose of giving me communion. When I started on Var-ne-sis I was in bed and continually getting worse, and for almost a year I did not see very much improvement except that my stomach was better and my strength began to return.

"From an absolutely helpless cripple who could only turn in bed with the aid of a rope rigged overhead, I am now walking about as you see me, without the aid of a crutch or cane. From day to day I can see I am growing better. I thank God for the knowledge that brought Var-ne-sis to me and I have often prayed that Mr. Varney might be long spared for a continuance in the work that he is doing for sufferers.

"There is hardly a person in this section who does not know about my condition, and I am glad you called, for it may be the means of helping other sufferers. In fact I am always glad to hear from any rheumatic sufferers and let them know how I regained my health. My address is Post Office Box 134, Moosup, Connecticut. I have loaned my wheel chair, crutches, pulley and shoes to Var-ne-sis to add to the collection in Boston."

Hundreds of rheumatic sufferers have recovered their health through Var-ne-sis after ordinary remedies have failed. Var-ne-sis does not contain salicylates, iodides, colchicum or the usual drugs so often given, but is composed of roots, herbs and barks. No rheumatic can afford to ignore Var-ne-sis. Var-ne-sis is not a cure-all, but is intended for rheumatic conditions that have failed to respond to ordinary remedies.

A registered physician may be consulted free of charge at the Boston Office, 140 Boylston st.

Send to W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass., for the newspaper devoted to rheumatics.

ACTIVITIES OF GERMANS IN U. S. PROBED

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—For the last four months the Department of Justice has been investigating activities in this country of German propagandists and secret agents whose functions are regarded as violative of the neutrality of the United States and have the appearance of efforts to involve this government in the European war. This was admitted today by a high federal official.

Evidence is now said to be in the possession of the department implicating official representatives of Germany. There is no indication, however, that the administration intends to request their recall.

In addition to acts actually violative of neutrality, the propaganda is alleged to embrace other acts concerning which this government is more or less powerless to act.

These are said to be efforts to cause labor troubles at ammunition plants, to set up such plants for the manufacture of material for Germany, to acquire control of an aeroplane manufactory to force an embargo on war shipments to the allies and to accentuate the friction between this country and Mexico.

It is also alleged that the activity has extended to passports frauds and the encouragement of false manifests of shipments from this country.

It is understood the inquiry by the Department of Justice is not yet complete and that a voluminous record concerning the alleged activities of German officials and secret agents is piled up in the archives of the department.

Not only is the department understood to be investigating alleged German attempts to violate the neutrality of the United States, but it is still at work on claims that German interests have sought to increase the seriousness of the situation between this government and Mexico.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, declined to discuss the publication of these reports. At the German embassy at Far Rockaway this report was given to all inquiries:

"The ambassador has no statement yet."

Italian Submarine 'Sunk by a Defect

ROME, Aug. 16.—Denial is given to report that the Italian submarine Nautilus has been sunk. The Italian submarine Nereide, it also is asserted, was not destroyed in a combat with Austrian vessels, but went to the bottom as the result of a fault in her machinery.

L'U-3 Anche Distrutto

ROMA, 15 Agosto.—L'Ammiraglio Italiano comunica come fu distrutto il sottomarino Austriaco U-3.

"Il sottomarino attaccò una delle nostre corazzate, che passava nell' Adriatico Meridionale. L'urto due torpedini. La corazzata, con abili manovre evitò i due colpi diretti. Essa poscia attaccò il sottomarino da vicino, danneggiandolo. Un cacciatorpediniere, fra le quali ce ne era una francese, la Bisson, corse in caccia dell' U-3; lo raggiunse e l'affondò.

L' Ammiraglio Italiano nega che i due sottomarini italiani, il Nautilus e il Nereide siano stati affondati, e sarà altresì che dei gravi danni siano stati causati sulla costa italiana da due torpediniere nemiche.

MILANO, 15 Agosto.—La Marina Austriaca ha perduto due sottomarini in due giorni, l'U-12 e l'U-3. Vi sono buone ragioni per credere che due altri sottomarini Austriaci sono stati gravemente danneggiati o affondati prima. Di 12 sottomarini perciò, l'Austria ne ha ora solamente otto.

Da Venezia apprendiamo alcune circostanze per cui l'U-12 fu distrutto. Ciò fu durante un gran parte alla marina andare e perlustrazione di una torpediniera Italiana che vide il periscopio nel mezzo dell' Adriatico.

Il sottomarino cercava di avvicinare la torpediniera sperando di lanciarle contro un siluro quando l'azione fosse favorevole, ma la torpediniera italiana corse attorno un piroscafo nella direzione della costa. Un sottomarino italiano, con una manovra rinsciitissima, lanciò un siluro proprio quando quello nemico passava dal suo tiro.

DA TRENTO A MONFALCONE.

Il Comando italiano, nel rapporto di ieri, comunica: "Che un treno nemico, armato di cannoni, attaccante la stazione di Serravalle, fu costretto a ritirarsi; che gli attacchi contro la nostra posizione di monte Maggio furono respinti; che nella vallata Popena, gli austriaci, tentando invano di riprendere le posizioni conquistate dai nostri, andarono incontro a gravi perdite; che, nella vallate Sexten, la fanteria italiana ha occupate le posizioni alla cima di Seikofel. Credarossa e dei considerevoli progressi; e che un treno armato austriaco invano attente' alle posizioni italiane al sud di Monfalcone.

Poscia le due piccole navi italiane si avanzarono, intendendo di salvare la ciurma del sottomarino, ma non arrivarono a tempo poiche' esso affondo' e nessuno pote' essere salvato.

ALLIES BOMBARD BOSPHORUS FROM AIR

ATHENS, Aug. 16.—Allies airmen have bombarded Constantinople and the arsenals at Tophane and Galata.

Many casualties are reported, and considerable damage is said to have been done.

Gallata, on the north side of the Golden Horn near Seraglio Point, is Constantinople's largest suburb and the custom house of the capital. The inhabitants before the war were mainly European Christians.

An official report from Constantinople admits hostile airmen have twice dropped bombs on Ari Burnu, wounding nine soldiers.

At the same time the Turks claim operations in the Dardanelles are proceeding successfully for them. They say an attack against the Turkish right wing north of Ari Burnu has been repelled by a strong counter attack, which resulted in the capture of prisoners, including one officer.

A hostile landing bridge was bombarded by the Turks at Ari Burnu. By some this is taken to indicate the landing of more troops by the allies. It is stated here that there has been a serious outbreak of Turks against the Germans, which resulted in the arrest of ringleaders and other officers involved.

U-12, AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE, IS TORPEDOED

By BRINTON D'ALLAIRE.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

ROME, Aug. 16.—Dispatches from Milan feature the information that the Austrian submarine "U-12" was sent to the bottom by an Italian submarine shortly after the "U-3" was destroyed by the French cruiser Bisson.

Austria has now lost one-third of her submarine strength, four of the under water boats having been sent to the bottom since the war began.

She had twelve submarines at the outbreak of hostilities.

Details of the destruction of the U-12 were received in late advices. The submergible boat was sighted in the middle of th Adriatic, and it was there she was sent to the bottom, with all on board.

Instead of submerging or taking flight, th submarine remained at the surface, to give battle to the Italian torpedo boat destroyer.

The destroyer manoeuvred the submarine toward the coast, where Italian under water boats were lying in waiting. One of these craft fired a torpedo, which sent the Austrian boat to the bottom so quickly her crew could not be saved.

"A Rubber Chain Tread Built on a Powerful Modern Tire"

These Manufacturers Know

Wise automobile manufacturers have to know good tires—it is their business to.

Next to the motor, the tires on a car are the most vital part of the car.

Next to the quality of the tires, the company behind the tires—the number of tire service stations throughout the country, and tire service given—is the most vital part of the tire subject.

Among the many leading automobile manufacturers of the world who have already adopted "Chain Treads" as a part of their standard equipment, are the following:

Buick	Haynes	Mitchell
Dodge Brothers	King	Reo
Grant	Maxwell

Wise manufacturers know that it pays them to have their cars reach the buyers equipped with the best of tires, just as it pays them to use the best steel in their chassis, and the best motors that can be produced, etc.—that is why they are giving their customers

"Chain Tread" Tires

Safety experts acknowledge our rubber chain tread, built on this powerful modern tire to be an absolutely marvelous anti-skid device.

"FRAMERS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.A." NO. 10

Robert Morris—"Financier of the Revolution"

IT HAS BEEN SAID the three very great men of our War for Independence were Washington, Franklin and Morris. In the history of mankind no man ever had a more arduous commission than did Morris in financing the armies of Washington. The credit of the nation was practically valueless, and time after time it was the personal credit of Morris which brought forth the money. The financial means raised from his own private resources made the victory at Trenton possible. When Washington proposed the capture of Lord Cornwallis and his entire army, it was from Morris, the patriot and private citizen, and not from the treasury of the Confederated States from which the money came. Thus Washington's last great victory was made possible, and the long and bloody struggle for National Independence brought to an end. Morris was the first to suggest our present system of National banks—the best banking system that any nation has ever known. He was the first American to send a ship forth flying the Stars and Stripes. Like Franklin he signed both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. He was very hospitable, and whenever Washington visited Philadelphia he was the guest of Morris. He was ever a moderate user of light wines and barley brews, and opposed Prohibition Laws, which make the many suffer for the faults of the few. For 58 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley-malt and Saazer hop brews which the wisdom of Morris knew make for real temperance. To-day at the home of BUDWEISER, 7500 people are daily required to meet the natural public demand. BUDWEISER'S ever-increasing popularity comes from quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

DR. BURNS STORY OF SINKING OF IBERIAN

Dr. Patrick S. Burns, ship's surgeon of the Iberian, which was torpedoed by the Germans on July 21, arrived in Boston today on the Leyland liner Bohemian and told of the last moments of Mark Wiley of East Boston, chief hostler of the Iberian.

On the Bohemian were half a dozen other Boston men and several other Americans who made up the crew of the Iberian.

To the AMERICAN, Dr. Burns gave a graphic account of the end of the vessel and his boarding the German submarine. Dr. Burns said:

"Mark Wiley was my first patient. He was horribly injured by the shrapnel from the submarine. We got him into the boat safely and after nearly a day in the small boat were picked up by the H. M. S. Sundower. Wiley was so badly injured that he died in half an hour.

SIX SHELLS FIRED

"I was in the laboratory when I heard the first shot. I went on deck and we could make out the German submarine U-58 some distance away. Captain Jago, who had escaped from two submarines on previous trips, ordered full speed ahead and the firemen responded with a will.

"Six shells were fired. One of them struck near the bridge. This shell killed six of the crew and injured several others. It was this shell that injured Wiley. Soon it was seen the slow freighter was no match in speed for the submarine.

"The captain ordered the vessel stopped. The crew, including hostlers, numbered 110. The crew took to the boats and there was no disorder or confusion. I was in the last boat to leave the ship. This boat carried Captain Jago, the chief engineer, the chief steward, ten uninjured and eight injured of the crew."

NO HELP IN SIGHT.

"When the first shot was fired Captain Jago immediately sent out distress signals by wireless. We looked eagerly around for help, but there was nothing in sight but the submarine. She came up with all her crew, forty-five or fifty men, on deck, armed with rifles and revolvers. She was of the latest type and about 300 feet long. An officer told us to get to one side and she fired a torpedo at the British, point blank. We could easily hear the swish of the torpedo's wake and hear the sound of the explosion.

"The explosion was terrific. Our little boat rocked like an egg shell. Twenty minutes later the Iberian disappeared. The submarine then approached us and its captain asked what ship it was, our names and whether anyone had been killed.

"Then in answer to our replies he said, 'I am sorry.' I did not mean to hurt anyone, but why did you not stop?'

"The captain said: 'I stopped as soon as I could.'

"You lie. You tried to escape. When you get on land you tell English captains to stop when they are ordered to by Germans, and not try to escape,' was the German commander's reply, he spoke good English, but with a German accent.

BANDAGES FOR WOUNDED.

"I then asked him if he could give me bandages for the wounded and he told me to come on board and get them. I went on board and he sent one of his men below for bandages. He asked 'Did you send out wireless signals?' Captain Jago from the boat said: 'The wireless is disabled.' The sailor then brought up the bandages and I got back into our small boat, but not before I had a good chance to look around.

"After I got into our boat the submarine made off with her officers on deck scanning the horizon for new victims through their glasses. We sailed all that day, pulling due north as we were about seventy miles south of Fastnet Light, Ireland. That night we kept sending up rockets, and finally they were answered. The ship that picked us up was the Sunflower, and her captain and crew did everything possible for us."

Runaway Boys Here to "Start a Paper"

Four boys who ran away from institutions were caught in Boston today and sent back. From St. Philip's Home in New York came William D. O'Hare, seventeen; Charles R. Wilson, sixteen, and Jeremiah J. Sheehan, sixteen. They worked in the printing department of the home and said they came to Boston "to start a paper." Waldo Nickolson, nine, Stanley Jones, ten, ran away from the Tewksbury Almshouse on Saturday and was found today.

CANCER FIND BY ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Announcement has just been made of another remarkable discovery by the Rockefeller Institute—a discovery whereby immunity from cancer, it is hoped, may be procured.

The two men, James B. Murphy and John J. Morton, investigators of the institute, belongs the credit of the discovery. For more than two years they have been working out their theories. Their results have just been announced through the Academy of Science at Washington.

Although at present no promise of cure is held out to victims of cancer as a result of the discovery, yet it is hoped further researches will lead to discoveries through which cures will be made possible. So to the present the experiments have been confined to mice, and in every instance they have been amazingly successful.

In the white lymph cells of the blood has been found the necessary factor in making animals immune from cancer.

The crux of the discovery is this: A great increase of the white lymph corpuscles—an increase either natural or brought about by injection of lymph tissue—gives absolute immunity from the dread disease. Where such an increase does not take place cancer, inoculated, grows at once with virulent rapidity.

The little white lymph corpuscles, "lymphocites," for which Doctors Murphy and Morton claim such importance in preventing cancerous growths, are but one twenty-five-hundredth of an inch in diameter. They are much rarer in the blood than the red corpuscles, one white cell being found for every 500 or 600 red cells.

To medical men the last sentence of the report sounds a hopeful note. It reads:

"Hence it would seem fair to conclude that the lymphocite is a necessary factor in cancer immunity."

This means, it is pointed out, that a serum of lymphoid tissue is in order now for all who may be exposed to or fearing it, if they would escape the ravages of cancer.

Dr. Charles R. Hancock, authority in the treatment of cancer, is of the opinion that there were possibilities in the new discoveries of the Rockefeller investigators. "They have not yet given a proof of the value of their theory practically," he said, "but may do so in the near future. We must suspend judgment until we have seen it tried out on cases in human beings."

Six Months in Jail on Larceny Charge

Mikhitar Mikhitarian, of Sixth street, Chelsea, and Armenag Manoogian of Orange street, Chelsea, were before Special Justice Cutler in the Chelsea Court today charged with the theft of $500 from Thomas Arzidician of No. 127 Spring street, also of Chelsea. Mikhitarian was found not guilty, but Manoogian was given six months in the House of Correction. He appealed and was held in $1,000. The court proceedings revealed that Arzidician had drawn $500 from a savings bank with which to return to his native country. While dining in an Armenian coffee house he was relieved of his money belt and his little fortune.

Accused of Causing Ferryboat Scare

In the East Boston Court today Leo Dennis, thirty-four, was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Dennis, according to the testimony, was returning to East Boston Saturday night on the ferryboat when he startled the crowded passengers by producing a revolver and began threatening a passenger whether or not he was a German. In court today Dennis appealed.

Frank Kramer in Front.

NEWARK, Aug. 16.—Frank Kramer pulled a come-back at the Velodrome and won the half-mile championship race, which adds five points to his total score in the titular series. Kramer is now three points nearer Alf Goullet of Australia, who led the title holder by ten points before the start of the race. Kramer defeated Bob Spears of Australia in the final, and eliminated Goullet in the grand semi-final.

SURE BUT WHAT IS THE VENUS OF MILO?
WHY DON'T YOU KNOW IS THE WAY WHAT IS IT DAUGHTER?
SAY WHEN THAT STATUE COMES - BRING IT RIGHT UP - HERE'S THE MONEY
THE MAN IS DOWN STAIRS WITH IT NOW -
THERE IT IS SIR
OH! MAGGIE! COME HERE!
LOOK - MAGGIE THE ARMS ARE BUSTED OFF OF THE STATUE
OH MY GOODNESS WHO DID IT OUR DAUGHTER WILL FAINT WHEN SHE SEES IT -
OH PA THANKS SO MUCH FOR PAYING FOR THIS IT'S REAL MARBLE TOO
WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME MAGGIE - THAT THE ARMS ARE SUPPOSED TO BE OFF
HOW SHOULD I KNOW

BRAVES BATTLE FOR PHILLY FINAL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—Manager Stallings of the Braves states that it is news to him that he is to acquire Tommy Leach of the Reds and Fred Snodgrass of the Giants. Stallings adds that Leach would likely prove a good man for his club, as he has always belted the offerings of the left-handers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—The Braves will be without the services of Captain Johnny Evers in their third and final battle with the Phillies on the Huntington avenue green this afternoon.

There is nothing to it but that the Trojan is sick and underweight. Playing through Friday's game wholly on his pluck, he laid off Saturday, though up on the coaching lines most of the way.

After the game he informed Chief Stallings that he was of absolutely no value to the club in his present condition, so together with Mrs. Evers, who joined him here Friday morning, packed up and departed for his home at Troy, N. Y.

Evers' parting shot to his manager was that he hoped he would be able to rejoin him in Boston Wednesday, the day the Braves' new field is to be dedicated. Evers assured Stallings that if he felt strong enough to play he would be on deck, but that if his general condition was not better he would remain in Troy.

After Rudolph came to grief Friday Stallings said he would send Dick Rudolph back against the Phillies Monday. This morning he stated that he might use Rudolph and that perhaps Pat Ragan would go to the slab.

"THE RABBITS' COLUMN" By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—We complete our road trip here today and will board a rattler for Boston immediately after this afternoon's tussle with the Phillies. Tomorrow is an off day in our schedule, but on Wednesday every member of the Braves outfit who is in condition will be back on the job again. The Braves battle the Cardinals Wednesday, and, as we are to open our new ball park, are anxious to grab off a victory.

I had a new experience yesterday. It was Sunday and consequently we did not have to play ball. Therefore I decided to interview Boss Stallings. I wished to prove to him that I was a regular, honest - to - goodness newspaper man as well as a ball player. I cornered the Miracle man—this is what all the newspaper boys call the boss, so I suppose its all right for me to follow their lead—in the lobby of the Majestic Hotel, where we stop when playing in Philadelphia.

"Hello, Rabbit," he said.

"I am glad to see you, Mr. Stallings," I answered. I wished to impress upon him that I meant business. "I want a baseball interview," I continued.

Stallings laughed, but as he knows that I write special baseball articles for the Boston AMERICAN, he agreed to discuss the great national game with me.

"I should think that you would get enough of me at 'skull practice,' said the Chief, "but if you like to hear me talk I will be glad to accommodate you. What particular subjects would you like me to discuss?"

I told Stallings to talk about the Braves, and also to make a few remarks about the Federal League.

Stallings seated himself in a comfortable chair and I sat down beside him. He made me get a piece of paper and pencil as he wished me to take notes, "I want to make you act like a real reporter," said the boss. "Take me down carefully and don't bust any statement I make. He then said:

"The recent Western trip of the Braves was a very successful one. The boys all showed to advantage. The National League race is so close that we are liable to go into the lead at any time. The club did not do as well in the first two games here in Philadelphia as I expected it would, but that is now past.

"We wind up our road trip here Monday, and open a stay at home Wednesday. I believe we will do much better when we get back in Boston. The Phillies are liable to 'crack' at any time. If such a thing happens, I think the Braves will have a splendid chance to jump into the lead. But even if the men led by Moran fail to slow up, I am confident the Braves will play good enough ball to overhaul and then pass them.

"This has been an unfortunate year for us. Evers broke his leg early in the season and was forced to take a long layoff. We lost many games which might have resulted otherwise if Johnny had been on the job of second base.

"Bill James also met with hard luck. He has had a lame arm all year and has been of little use to us. He is now at his home in California, but expects to join the team by September 1. If James had been in condition all season, the Braves would be in first place and they would have a comfortable lead on the other clubs in the league. If Bill had been 'right' from the start, he would have won most of his games. The other pitchers would also have had things easier and the result would have been that they would have shown to better advantage.

Comstock Hurdles to Feds.

Pitcher Ralph Comstock of the Providence club, who was sold to the Cincinnati Reds last Friday, has hurdled to the Pittsburgh Feds, it is reported today.

JOE WOOD CARDED TO OPPOSE GALLIA

By RIGHT FIELD.

The Red Sox tarry in their dear old home city today just long enough to annex the third game of the series with the Senators. Then Our Boys are off to the once wild and wooly West to continue their program of annexation.

The team will start the festivities at 2:15, as just an even three hours later the Sox are going away from here. Thus we will all be able to cut out business half an hour earlier than usual and get started for Fenway Park in order that business may not interfere with baseball.

"Smoky Joe" Wood, who was not given the assignment to battle Walter Johnson after all, seems to be the sure fire selection for the mailbox on the part of the Carrigans. An able young Bostonian yclept Bert Gallia, will hurl for the Senators in their last ditch essay.

While our residents are not worrying about the conduct of Joe Wood on the mound—said conduct having been exemplary, to say the least, of late—Pooman Gallia may be relied on to serve up some slants that will prevent the pastime from becoming devoid of interest during any of the nine innings.

Pooman Gallia has been pitching some very sweet games for Griff of late, and so has been elected to break the pesky "hoodoo" that hangs over the Fenway Park calls of the athletes from the Capital. If he fares ill some of the younger artists may be sent in to bear the burden and heat of the day.

Being as it is send-off day, the usual Monday crowd is expected to be augmented in goodly measure. With the Red Sox up on their toes the fans are following them with both eyes, but sparing an occasional glance at the strife between the Tigers and White Sox. This strife, needless to say, is not jeopardizing the anchor hold the clan of Carrigan has on the high and lofty top of the heap.

While the Red Sox are roaming afar the Sporting Extra of the AMERICAN will serve the scores hot off the wire, as usual, and the other editions will keep the fans informed of how goes the battle.

Lannin's Pals Are to Have a Big Day

Sh-h-h! Don't let President Lannin of the Red Sox know anything about it. Be sure and keep it from him. At the instigation of the different societies that have attended the Red Sox games this season as guests of the Red Sox president, it has been arranged that on September 11 one and all will put up their respects to him.

Furthermore, they intend paying their own way into Fenway Park. Even the holders of season passes will line up and buy pasteboards, and every effort will be made to make "Lannin Day" a sparkling success. The White Sox play here on the date selected.

Leach Cross Meets Griffiths.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Leach Cross has come out of retirement and will meet Johnny Griffiths, the Akron, O., lightweight, in a ten-round bout at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, tomorrow night. Griffiths is coming fleet heralded as one of the best 135-pounders in the profession. Burton is down to get an early peek at the Western boy.

wers States He Expects to Play Here Wednesday

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Captain Evers of the Braves stated today that he already felt much better as a result of his two days' absence from the club and the one day at home, and that he confidently expects to leave for Boston tomorrow afternoon. This will land him there in the evening.

I don't want to throw down the club, that's a cinch," said Evers. "I'll be there Wednesday and in the battle unless I'm certain that I won't be of any help to Stallings and the boys."

After going to church in the morning Evers spent the day in perfect quiet with his family. He even asked to be excused from greeting any of his many friends that called at his home.

THE THREE ROADS TO GOOD HEALTH

The use of selected barley malt, the hardest of cereals, and Bohemian hops in the brewing of beer, combining their nourishing and tonic qualities, has caused the world's most eminent food specialists to advocate the use of beer of the FENWAY type as a part of the daily diet.

Fenway Ale is sound, crisp and snappy. It is brewed for character and aged in cellars that are famous for the rare quality of their Ales. Its pleasant hop taste has justenough of the bitter to make it an ideal appetizer.
Fenway Lager, the real pure food beverage, has the qualities which the food specialists recommend in beer as an aid to digestion. Take a glass of Fenway with your meals.
Fenway Porter has a full, heavy body, rich in the health promoting elements of choice malt and Saazer Kreis hops. It is highly nourishing and mildly stimulating. A glass of Fenway Porter or half Porter and half Ale promotes healthy, restful sleep.

Fenway Products are sold at Leading Bars and Bottle Stores at the Same Price as Ordinary Beers. They are all brewed with CHOICE MALT and SAAZER KREIS BOHEMIAN HOPS, and are the only ones brewed in New England or coming from the West made from these World's best materials and bottled exclusively at the brewery.

Every Home Should Have a Case of Fenway

It Is Often More Difficult to Forget the Past Than It Is to Frame Up for the Future

NEWS WRITTEN BY LEADING EXPERTS

BALDWIN MEETS SAYLOR IN GO AT ATLAS

MATTY BALDWIN, who has kept Charlestown on the boxing map for three many years, will meet Milburn "Young" Saylor in a twelve-round frolic at the Atlas A. A. tomorrow night. It is one of the most important bouts arranged by the Triple-X organization this year and can be relied upon to furnish plenty of thrills.

Baldwin and Saylor have already met twice. Each contest was a spirited affair and ended with honors even. Consequently the rival glove men will try hard to put over a victory tomorrow evening.

There are few boxers who are as popular as Baldwin. Eddie Murphy's protege has made a remarkable ring record. He has always fought his battles on the level and his yet to fail to give the "fans" his best efforts.

The Charlestown boy has been preparing for tomorrow's bout at Lynnfield. He says he is in better condition right now than he was for his bouts with Ritchie and Saylor and that he expects to win.

SAYLOR, however, has a faculty of upsetting the "dope" and will prove no easy mark for the Bunker Hill lightweight.

There will also be another first-class bout on the bill in the semi-final match of eight rounds. The participants will be Johnny Noonan of Dorchester and Howard McRae, one of the most promising little men developed in this section in a long time. Both are hard-hitting, willing little fellows and a slam-bang, as well as a scientific bout, is expected to result.

An attractive set of preliminaries have been arranged. Joe Carroll of Lawrence will meet Harry Long of the South End and Joe Vincent will meet Johnny Mellow of Gloucester in six-round bouts.

THE following letter has been received at this office from Joe Woodman:

In one of Boston's dailies there appeared a story from Harry Wills' manager, in which he stated that for some reason or other I had failed to accept matches for Sam Langford, the best heavyweight in the world, with Wills. In stating this I can only say that I have been ready to match the "Tar Baby" against the New Orleans boxer since Langford knocked him out provided the conditions were right.

Last November, when Langford beat Wills, Tom McCarey had to give Wills a big guarantee before he would sign and Langford had to take all the worst of the match. Before that two clubs have tried to match these two men again, I have looked for the right to box a creditable opening to Langford. At no time has any club offered a purse equal to Denver, and for some unknown reason Wills has sidestepped this offer. Langford has boxed in every place in the world where they hold a big matches and has never refused to meet anyone.

Langford is anxious to meet Sam McVea and Joe Jeanette, who have recently received decisions over him, and is now and always has been ready to meet any head-liner, barring no one, if the conditions are right.

(Signed) JOE WOODMAN.

Boston Golfers in Chicago for Title

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Tom McNamara, Mike Brady and Tom Kerrigan of Boston, are here for the Western open golf championship, which starts Wednesday on the Glen Oak course. Walter Hagan of Rochester, N. Y.; James Barnes and other famous professionals are also among the early arrivals.

No prominent Eastern amateurs are entered, but Charles ("Chick") Evans, Jr., of Chicago, four times Western amateur champion and winner of this tournament in 1910, will compete.

Paddlers Wind Up Training for Race

The swimmers that will compete in the Nantasket to Provincetown race next Saturday will complete their training the next two days. Sam Richards and Ted Sullivan will hold a match race over this course, while the L Street Swimming Club is holding an open race over the same course and at the same time.

George Meehan, Henry Miron, Charley Toth and others will start.

Vermont G. A. Tournament.

The annual tournament of the Vermont Golf Association is carded for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The entry list is a record-breaker for the organization.

FOUR FLYERS TO CLASH AT REVERE

No insistent was Clarence Carman for a return race with George Wiley, Manager Nat Butler has signed up this pair, together with Victor Lisart and George Seres, for a fifty-mile motor-paced contest at the Revere cycle track Wednesday night.

Carman and Wiley were riding neck-and-neck up to the seventeenth mile of the one-hour motor-paced race at the beach oval Saturday night, when one of Carman's tires loosened, threw him to the track and forced him out of the race.

Wiley won the race in very clever fashion, but an argument followed. Carman claiming that he would have been the victor had not the accident put him out of the running. Wiley let it go at that, saying that if Carman thought he was a better man he was welcome to another chance. That settled it. The men were signed without further words.

Wiley's work of late has been nothing short of sensational. He has won firsts in his last four starts at the seaside track. All of these were long distance events, including the national championship race. Saturday night he covered an even forty-four miles in one hour, which is close to the track record.

Lisart's work will be watched with interest. The Belgian is a particularly strong rider over the one-hour route, his only defeat at this distance being administered by Wiley.

Winthrop Candidate Sure He Will Win Trip to Series

ROY G. HATCH.

ON THE LAST LAP! Candidates in the AMERICAN'S World's Series Contest are today starting on the last four weeks of the battle of votes which will determine just who are the 25 most popular fans in New England.

And it will be a fight to the finish, too, judging from the enormous amount of vote coupons being received at the Contest Department each day.

Candidates appreciate, by this time, what a wonderful chance is being offered to them—a chance to see all of the 1915 World's Series Championship games, wherever played, FREE—and every fan in the race seems to be doing his best to take advantage of this opportunity. Special arrangements are now being made to make the twenty-five fortunate fans supremely happy, in the event of both Boston teams winning and the entire series being played here at home.

It's up to you, fans. If you want a FREE trip hustle like you never have before from now until September 12.

Roy G. Hatch, a Winthrop candidate, is quite enthusiastic in his vote-gathering and says he is determined that Winthrop shall be represented at the World's Series games and that he intends to be its representative.

SOUND BODIES

By JULIAN HAWTHORNE

This is the thirty-third of a series of articles on "Sound Bodies" written exclusively for the Boston AMERICAN by Julian Hawthorne. These articles will be continued in the AMERICAN on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

HOW TO BALANCE YOURSELF ON YOUR FEET.

To balance yourself securely on your feet is not so easy or common an accomplishment as you would be apt to think. The foot is not a very large thing—even when it IS large—compared with the rest of the body, and if there were not two of them you would be toppling over continually. Walk along a narrow plank over a stream; you have space enough to tread in, and you would traverse a path of that width on the solid ground without difficulty; but the fact that you might fall off the plank makes you conscious of the insecurity of your balance; and in the middle of the passage, perhaps, you begin to teeter, and, should your nervousness increase, you may fall off, sure enough.

The experiment, at all events, will have taught you that, in order to keep your balance, a great many unsuspected muscles must co-operate. In fact, if the plank bridge, nine inches wide, were suspended across Niagara Rapids, say, and you were to spend an hour cautiously picking your way over it, you would find yourself, at the end of the little journey, aching all over your body, from the back of your head, down your neck, arms, chest, back, front, waist, loins, thighs and calves, and as for the muscles of your feet, they would need a long rest.

Now all these muscles are also exercised in the simple act of walking along a road—as you may satisfy yourself by observing a child making its first experiments of putting one foot before another. But when the child is eight or ten years old it is as safe upon its pins as a goat; and grown folks never think about the matter, unless they are caught on an icy sidewalk with a gust of wind jumping at them round the corner. Practice has made walking easy, and though the muscles are still called upon to preserve the balance, the call is now so slight that it escapes notice.

When you are a good performer upon the tight-rope or slack-wire his feats look easy; but look more closely and you will see that every muscle is working every moment to keep him from tumbling off. Every minute that he remains on the wire he is going through all the exercises that we have been practicing for some weeks past, and a great many more besides. He had to do them, merely to avoid disaster. The movements are small, but they are intense enough to make up for that and more; and were he not trained as hard as nails by constant practice he couldn't hold himself on the wire for one second.

It is much the same with stage dancing—the ballet and the Isadora Duncan dances. Those people are performing wonderful feats of balancing all the time, and the facility with which they seem to float through their act is an illusion, it is the result of great strength and readiness in the muscles and of constant and severe practice.

We are not training for the slack-wire or for the ballet; but we will take a few exercises calculated to make us a little safer on our feet. There are scores of such, which, when you have caught the idea, you can invent for yourself; but our next exercise shall be one of the easy ones.

Willard Was Given Splendid Ovation By the Cubans

"Viva Vee-Yard!" cried the first person who saw Jess Willard as he emerged from his hotel in Havana on his way to fight Jack Johnson.

"Viva Vee-Yard!" took up the crowds in the street and all the way to the race track his path was marked by an ovation.

You've read what others thought of the way Willard felt and acted just before he entered the ring with Johnson. Tomorrow, in the AMERICAN, in the next chapter of his autobiography, you will have a chance to learn from Willard himself what his sensations were.

Remember, what you read in the AMERICAN tomorrow is PRIZE RING HISTORY.

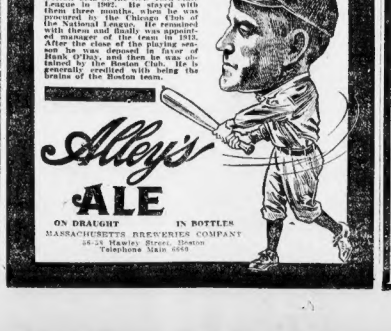
UNITED SHIRT & COLLAR CO., TROY, N.Y.



John J. Evers was born March 21, 1883, at Troy, N. Y. He played his first professional ball with the Detroit Club of the New York State League in 1902. He stayed with them three months, when he was procured by the Chicago Club of the National League. He remained with them and finally was appointed manager of the team in 1913. After the close of the playing season he was demoted in favor of Hank O'Day, and then he was obliged by the Boston Club. He is generally credited with being the brains of the Boston team.

TENER CALLS FOR A MEETING HERE

A meeting of the National League will be held in Boston on Wednesday, following the plan recently inaugurated by President John K. Tener in having meetings in the different cities of the circuit. Wednesday is the day set for the formal opening of the new park of the Braves, and all of the club presidents will be here for that event. This undoubtedly governed the selection of Boston for the meeting.

The occasion will also serve to mark the celebration of the winning of the 1914 world's championship by the Boston club. A pennant emblematic of the world's baseball title will be unfurled prior to the start of the game. Appropriate exercises will celebrate the dual occasion.

President Gaffney will formally christen his new grounds "Braves' Field." The St. Louis club will be the opponents of the Champions.

Pioneer Lodge Track Meet.

Kahoe Hits the Bushes.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—After spending two days with George Stallings, and telling the Braves' manager just what he discovered in his recent trip through the minors, Mike Kahoe hit out for the West. He plans taking in the smallest of the minors.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

BY RIGHT FIELD

PRESIDENT JAMES E. GAFFney of the Braves deserves and will be given a place among those who have done something big to boom Boston. It's a fine thing for the city to be known throughout the land as the home of such an up-to-the-minute baseball plant as he has set up out Allston way.

BOSTON NOW HAS THE TWO best diamond layouts in the country. When our citizens roam afar through these United States all they have to do is to mention their native city to become the target for questions as to how the Sox and Braves are getting along. Baseball keeps Boston on the map just as do Beans, Codfish, Culture and others of our specialties.

IF 538 more citizens had made the trip to Fenway Saturday the Sox and Senators would have played to as large a gallery as all the other American League teams put together.

WALTER JOHNSON is a game loser. He was about the Copley Square Hotel after his latest defeat with his head up. Was he down-hearted? If he was it did not appear on the surface.

WE booted one yesterday. Those few words about that decision at the plate should have gone for Umpire Bobby Wallace. Passing up the alibi, we'll just say that "Malice toward none and charity for all," or words to that effect, are, and of right ought to be, our guiding star.

TOMORROW is one of those rare affairs, an open date on the big time. The dyed-in-the-wool boys will trek to see their favorite team in the little old New England.

PENNOCK, late of the Macks, and still later of the Red Sox, hurled Providence for a win for Owner Lannin on Saturday.

THE Sox and Grays tee up front in their respective leagues by just about the same figures. It must be joy, Bonifacs Lannin, to own two good ones.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY JOHN J. Lane of the Red Sox is being congratulated on the announcement of his engagement to Miss Mary A. Troy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Troy of East Broadway, South Boston. The wedding will take place after the World's Series.

THOSE of the faithful who like to sit behind the dugout of the home team should bear in mind that the Braves will be established at the left of the diamond, as one sits in the grandstand, at their new home. At Fenway and Walpole street it was the other way about.

ALONG comes A. H. H., a State street "fan," with a mooted question. "In the judgment of the wisest baseball experts, which is considered the most dependable and beneficial to a team, a top-notch pitcher or a leading batsman?" he asks.

BEFORE we tabulate the opinions of an assortment of "wise experts" for you, A. H. H., it might be interesting for all hands to mook over the matter while the mooting is good. How about some of the "fans" writing in so we can hold a clinic of our own on this here row problem?

SLIP a letter addressed to "Right Field," Boston AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, into the mails if you have a decided opinion of your own. Those baseball lovers who do not care to mook over this question can propound, discuss, debate or otherwise manhandle the subject as may suit their light and airy fancy.

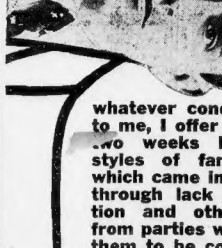
THERE will be several new Braves to give the up and down to when the Champions get back. Compton, Hess, middle gardener, and Nehf and Barnes, slabsters, will claim our attention.

Peter Mac Will Go After World's Mark

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The management of the Orange County Driving Park Association has completed arrangements to have Peter Mac go against the world's trotting record of 2:01, for a stallion over a half-mile track on the opening day of the three days' meeting tomorrow afternoon.

THE REASON

For the decline in custom tailoring in this country today is, first, lack of organization; second, the hiding of their light under a bushel; in other words, not advertising. Ready-made clothing stores today have the call because they have organization and national advertising. I am an organization tailor and an advertising tailor. My only fault has been that I fail to call attention to the average man how difficult it is for round shoulders, short neck, long neck, long arm, and men who are built abnormally to be dressed up in a standardized suit, who, when they come to have a suit made to their order tell the cutter, "Don't pay any attention to this suit, it was bought ready-made." Would that I or J. Caul Macdonald could help and assist an organization of tailors, through intelligent thought, to bring forth these ideas to the public in a line of newspaper advertising.



The organization tailoring, no profits, excepting my own, between the mill and whatever condition warrants cloths being sold to me, I offer for the next two weeks hundreds of styles of fancy suitings, which came into my hands through lack of organization and other troubles, from parties who expected them to be converted into $20–$25–$30 suits. Suit to order $0.75

Uncalled-for Suits as low as $5.00 Uncalled-for Trousers $1.75

True Love in a Cottage

It Can Be Attained, but It Means a Lot of Self-Sacrifice

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"LOVE in a cottage" is not a poet's dream; it is real practical possibility. But—and there is a large BUT—everything depends on whether the love and the cottage are both real. Love can make a rose-twined cottage out of a room in a slum tenement, and cruel indifference is capable of turning a rose arbor over the door of a beautiful little home into a hedge of thorns.

If the foundations of love are firm and so too are those of the little house where it comes to dwell, both will stand sturdily facing storm and tempest and all the wear and tear of heat and cold and fortune's mischances right through life until eternity itself.

Now this is gloriously true; but you have to be fairly sure of both your love and your cottage. More, you have to be certain of them as one may be of anything in all this mutable world of ours.

I am recommending a stampede to the altar on twelve dollars a week nor yet on fifteen and "three hundred in the bank." For some "good managers," for some sturdy workers with future advancement assured such sums might assure the monthly payments on the cottage and the bread and milk for Love's sustenance and the warm gear to keep his spark of life burning in the world's Winter.

There is a happy mean in marriage as in all other things. Overcaution does not know it—for overcaution will waste glorious years—if youth trying to work beyond the "love in a cottage" state lest that little cottage be haunted by a spectre of love in rags. Nor does realized emolden know the happy mean for marriage. It takes sane judgment in each individual case.

How good a manager is Lucy? How much luxury will she go without? How patient will she be when she sees other women better dressed and indulging in trips to pleasure palaces from which she is barred by lack of the price of admission? How willing is she to work to keep her cottage bright and shining and her soul radiant and her body sweet and dainty? How much strength has she to keep on hoping and to encourage Charley to fight on in the face of failure?

These are the questions she must ask herself even after she is well assured that Charley is the man she loves supremely of all the men in the world.

And Charley must add to his knowledge that he wants to make Lucy's life to be happy those questions of himself: "Will love keep working when she is tired and weary of working to make my scanty earnings cover her wants?" "Will I work with vim and vigor to get food for her?" And am I sure of myself and my determination to succeed? Will I be tender and kind to make up for the luxuries I cannot give?

"Will I keep away from pleasures I cannot afford and forego being one of the boys and find my happiness with my wife and in her happiness? Will I aid her efforts to make me a home and not insist on miracles of housewifery from a girl who is as adept as her game as I am at mine—marriage?" "Am I there-withal for her to build us a nest?"

If both will bear and forebear and work together as partners both will be followed by breaking health, or insane jealousy of those who do not have to say, "I can't afford that," or extravagance that leads to ruin.

Love in a cottage may mean Purgatory or "Heaven below." Each of us has to decide what it shall mean in our individual case and then file it or embrace it reverently. It will spell happiness when it houses perfect love mingled with independence and proper pride and wholesome, plus ability to work and mutual confidence and trust. It needs loyal partners to keep it bright. Love-lies love in a cottage is love in a cottage over which the rose-vine climb and on which the sun shines.

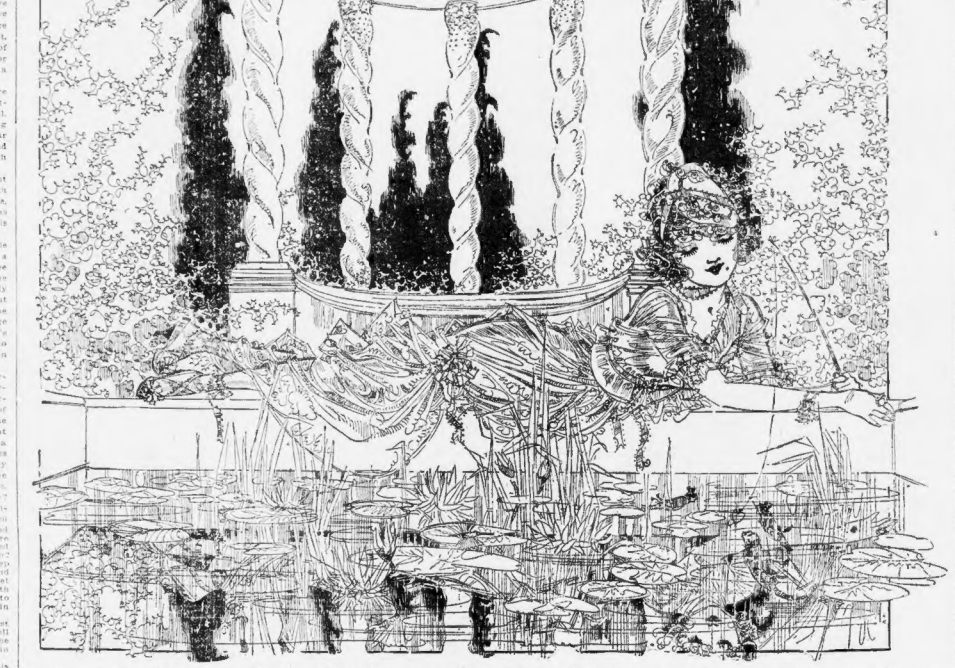
"Good Fishing Weather"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service.



THE lawyer squirms in his turning chair till he can get a glimpse of the Summer sky and the remote silver of the bay. Observing the soft grey sky and the soft gray water and soft southern wind, he mourns, "Great guns! This is great fishing weather! The big fellows are biting today like so many pet kittens. If I only could get away. Great fishing weather!"

But there's an angler who doesn't need "weather." Just the right bait, that's all. Of course, Summer-time's the best time. She's a quirky little fellow with curls and a child-smile, and a tongue of honey, and a way of looking up in a "fish's" face that says, "My, but you know a lot—most everything, don't you?" and with a soft little heart on her bent pin she draws them in one by one! She snaps her fingers at "fishing weather!" What does that matter when you know the bait for any weather!—NELL BRINKLEY.

In Our Wonderful World

ONE delightful little creature which will never cause any trouble is the jerboo. It is small, and has no odor to keep reasonably clean, and its fur is beautifully soft and pale creamy fawn in color. It is rather like a tiny kangaroo, with very long, thin hind legs, very short front paws, and large, dark, lustrous brown eyes. The tail, which is used like a limb, has a pretty black and white tuft. The jerboo can be kept in a box half filled with sand and fed on grain, biscuit and green food.

Fish are certainly interesting animals and give a touch of life to a room. The qualintest one as a pet is the little paradise fish. It is about four inches long, and its body is gorgeously banded with red and blue. If a pair is kept the male will show off like a bird before his mate. They are easily kept in a tank twelve inches by six in a warm room.

The brazil nut tree does not begin to bear fruit until it attains the age of fifty years or thereabouts, and continues to produce crops intermittently. Trees known to be hundreds of years old have produced crops. The pods in which the nuts are contained drop in November and December. These pods are very hard and weigh several pounds, consequently the trees are studiously avoided during the period in which the pods are dropping, since it would be extremely hazardous for the fatherers to expose themselves to the danger of having the pods fall on them from such a great height. Each pod is at least seven inches in diameter and is full of nuts.

Chimneys were scarcely known in England in the year 1200. One only was allowed in a religious house, one in a manor house, and one in a great hall of a castle or a lord's house; but in other houses the smoke found its way out as best it could. Two writers of the fourteenth century seemed to have considered them as the newest invention of luxury. In Henry VII.'s reign the University of Oxford had no fire allowed; for, it is mentioned, after the students had supped, having no fire in Winter, they were obliged to take a good run to get heat in their feet before they retired for the night. Holinshed, in the reign of Elizabeth, describes the rudeness of the preceding generation in the arts of life.

"There were," says he, "very few chimneys; even in the capital towns the fire was laid to the wall, and the smoke issued out of the door, roof or window."

In the year of 1619 a tax of two shillings was laid on chimneys.

Gunners of the Insect World

The Marvellous Ant-Lion Is a Deadly Artillerist with Sand Pellets

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

IN the Summer vacation days there are hundreds of interesting things for visitors to the country to see, which most of such visitors never think about, and whose existence is probably unknown to all but a few dwellers in cities. It requires, perhaps, a special and somewhat rare mental makeup to appreciate some of these things. A great deal depends upon the way in which they happen to be introduced to one's attention.

I recall how a certain boy was introduced to the ant-lion, one of the most curiously interesting of all the smaller inhabitants of the earth, and it appeared so wonderful to him that he felt as if he had suddenly been transported to the magic island of the "Swiss Family Robinson." He could hardly believe that such a creature could exist in his own land, breathing the same air with himself.

He was strolling over a sandy knoll on a warm day in the early Autumn in Northern New Jersey, when he came upon an old gentleman stretched at full length upon the ground, with his elbows in the sand and his cheeks between his hands, so intently watching something just under his eyes that he did not at first hear the boy's approaching footsteps.

"Did you ever see an ant-lion?" asked the old gentleman, and immediately added: "Well here's one, and as lucky a fellow as ever I saw. Now, watch him."

The boy saw before him a little conical pit in the sand, about three inches across at the top and two inches deep, with perfectly smooth, steep-sloping sides. At first he noticed nothing in the pit until his new friend pointed out two little black objects sticking up at the very bottom where the pit's walls met from all sides in a point. Those, he said, were the ant-lion's jaws, waiting like an open trap for some insect to tumble in. The body of the animal was buried in the sand. The old gentleman was proceeding to explain how the ant-lion's prey came to it, when by good chance he was saved further words by the arrival of a predestined victim.

An unfortunate ant, wandering out of the thicket of straggling grass bordering the sunny stretch of sand where the trap was laid, and led by fatal curiosity, ventured to the verge of the treacherous pit. Instantly the light sand gave way beneath its feet, and it tumbled in. Before reaching the bottom it recovered its legs and began a terrible struggle to ascend the crumbling slope. But the sand continually rolled down, and it could make no progress. Meanwhile the gaping jaws below were expectantly stretched to seize it.

The boy's heart was in his mouth as he watched the struggle. His sympathies were aroused for the unfortunate ant, and he uttered a shout of joy when suddenly the latter found a firmer stratum of sand and began slowly but surely to ascend the sloping, treacherous way to safety.

But now an astonishing thing happened. The ant-lion, throwing off the cover of sand in which it had lain concealed, began to shovel loads of little brown pellets on its broad head and send them with a jerk, like showers of projectiles, at the escaping ant. A few discharges of this kind, falling like grapeshot upon the poor victim, brought it down to the bottom, where it was instantly seized by the powerful jaws and drawn under the sand.

The tragedy ended so suddenly that the boy fairly gasped in his agitation. Magnified by the intensity of the interest that the struggle had excited, the ant-lion seemed to him as formidable a creature as a tiger!

His new acquaintance, who was a local naturalist, told him how the ant-lion makes its pits, and this increased his wonder. The creature is a six-legged, ugly-looking larva, which may reach a length of half an inch. Its long curved jaws are like forceps. It is a wonderful engineer. In making a pit it begins by tracing a circular furrow, in a smooth, sandy place. Then, placing itself inside this bounding furrow, it uses the hinder part of its body like a plowshare to loosen sand, and with its forelega it loads its head and jerks the sand beyond the circle.

Thus it proceeds, round and round, making circle after circle until it reaches the centre, when it begins again from the circumference. By always using the inside legs only in loading its head, it deepens the excavation toward the centre, and finally forms a funnel two or three inches deep. If it went round the circle always in the same direction the same set of legs would be employed without relief. To prevent this, the insect reverses its direction after each turn around the enclosure.

It possesses so much muscular power in its neck that the sand thrown from the pit is cast as much as three inches beyond the border. The old naturalist was amusing himself by throwing pellets of sand into the pit and seeing the enraged ant-lion pitch them out again, when the boy of my story came upon him and unexpectedly found opened for him a new wonderland of nature.

What It Spells

One of the best stories of regimental life told by General Sir Archibald Hunter, the commander of the third English army, concerns a certain "Tommy" who was more noted for his wit than his scholarship. The man's grammar and spelling were simply awful, and Sir Archibald, who was a young officer at the time, was always trying to teach him the King's English.

"I don't believe you know what w-o-m-a-n spells," said the future general to the uneducated soldier on one occasion.

"Trouble, sir, as a rule, sir," replied "Tommy," with a grin.

Hunter was so amused that he was quite unable to reprimand the man for his cheek.

Their Married Life

Frances Tells Some Good News to Helen Before She Starts on Trip

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

"WHAT a shame you can't go West in the car!" said Mrs. Stevens, sipping iced tea and fanning herself with a souvenir fan.

Helen, who was sitting with a lap full of lingerie, looked up laughingly.

"Yes, it seems as if we have hardly used the car at all; but then, it would be frightfully expensive."

"Not so very. Your shoes are all good and the roads are splendid, they say."

"But then Bob and Louise are going with us."

"Yes, I know. Of course the other is out of the question. I simply mentioned it because I thought it would be so pleasant if you could manage it."

"Do you realize just how much longer it would take?" said Helen, cutting off a length of ribbon and beginning to run it through the insertion with a bodkin.

"Yes, it would take about twice the time."

"More than that; anyway I am perfectly satisfied to go by train. I think I would be a very funny person if I weren't."

Mrs. Stevens smiled in that superior manner that was slightly aggravating at times, and at that moment the bell rang and Mary ushered in another visitor.

"Hello, Helen," said a gay, sweet voice. "I ran upstairs all this heat to say good-by."

FRANCES SELLS A STORY AND IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Helen welcomed the arrival gladly, a little relieved that an interruption had arrived so opportunely.

"That was dear of you, Frances. How sweet you look, dear. Have you met Mrs. Stevens?"

Helen made the introduction and Frances responded nonchalantly.

"I am going away myself Saturday," she said, devoting herself assiduously to Helen. "And I have loveliest bit of luck to take along with me."

It was impossible not to enthuse with Frances. Even Mrs. Stevens, who had been inclined to disapprove, relented and smiled at her radiant face.

"Tell us about it," Helen said, "and don't mind if I go on with this work, the time is short and there is so much to be done."

"Well," announced Frances dramatically, "I sold a story this week for three hundred dollars."

"You did!" cried Helen.

"Yes, and I do believe it is the beginning for me."

"You write, Mrs. Knowles?" questioned Mrs. Stevens, leaning forward interestedly.

"I try to, but I must confess that I haven't done a great deal outside of my regular newspaper work."

"Oh, Frances, I am so glad," said Helen enthusiastically.

"I do believe you are," said the girl impulsively. "Well, I don't know as I shall tell you when it comes out. It isn't exactly the kind of a story that I had planned for my debut."

"What do you mean?"

Frances laughed. "I mean that it deals with a most unsavory problem and that it isn't at all the kind of a story that you would approve of."

Helen was pouring out some fresh tea for Frances, and she looked up and said unexpectingly:

"It seems that the public is clamoring for that kind of story."

"Well, I had the idea," said Frances, "or rather some one suggested it to me. I have written tons of the other kind, the simple and a trifle girlish variety, but they never went over, and I determined to try a different method."

"And it was accepted?"

"Yes, by the very first magazine I tried. They have refused lots of my other work, with the exception of a few verses. I do poetry pretty well, but there isn't a great deal of money in it."

"What magazine?" said Mrs. Stevens.

Frances hesitated for the fraction of an instant, and then said laughingly:

"The Scroll, but remember I warned you."

"Why that's perfectly splendid," said Helen; "no wonder they paid you so well."

"And the best part of it is, that they will take more of my work," said Frances delightfully. "I really am frightfully conceited about it."

HELEN FEELS A NEW INTEREST IN FRANCES

Helen looked at the girl with renewed interest. She looked as cool and dainty as though the weather was zero outside instead of registering ninety-five. She wore a white rajah suit, and her copper hair shone under a little Panama hat. Somehow Frances always gave the impression of fragrance and youth.

Helen hoped suddenly that her success was about to begin with her splendid piece of luck.

Mrs. Stevens rose to go and by the time Helen had risen her to the door and had said good-by Frances had risen and was standing by the little table looking out of the window reflectively.

"I shall miss you," she said taking Helen's hands in her own cool ones, "so don't stay too long and don't forget me."

For the first time Helen felt worried about Frances. It seemed as though the vaunted independence that had always been hers had vanished and had left behind it all the timidity and inexperience of youth. After all, what kind of a place was a big city for a young and very attractive girl?

Helen felt that she had not seen half enough of Frances; she might be able to do a great deal for her, and in the Fall she determined to watch over her more. Was there something that Frances was concealing, some problem, perhaps? And then Helen banished her foolish ideas as Frances kissed her lightly and pressed a little package into her hand.

"Just a foolish little gift to take away with you," she said, gaily, and with a last word she was gone.

Helen opened the package slowly, and disclosed to view an exquisitely embroidered lingerie pillow. Frances must have done it in her spare time. It was just the kind of a thing to tuck into her trunk while travelling on the train, but somehow it left a queer little feeling with Helen.

A feeling of something unfinished, a confidence untold that she would have to go away without knowing. Surely Frances would not mean that something was about to happen to Frances.

Another incident in this story of Everyday Life will appear here soon.

Salad and the Road to Health

Much to Be Gained by Eating Uncooked Green Stuff

IT has long been a joke how cats and dogs, when out of sorts, fly to grass or some kind of green food for relief.

The animal knows by instinct what only a few human beings are beginning to learn from experience —namely, that nature has provided vegetables of the leaf order, rich in mineral salts. These salts possess a double power—they not only combine with acids and ptomaines in the body, rendering them powerless, but they also drive them out of the system altogether.

It is not too much to say that no great mental, moral, or physical progress can be made without an ample supply of these mineral salts. Celery is the one ingredient of our regular diet which we cannot afford to do without.

Some people say salad is cold and indigestible, but cabbage, if eaten raw, needs only two and a half hours for digestion as against five hours when boiled. The boiling of green foods destroys the original organic combination of the mineral salts.

The blood of a healthy person should be alkaline—that is, the opposite to acid—and it is the alkaline foods and vegetables which bring about this healthy condition.

Many thousands of men and women of all ages suffer from anemia, from having lived almost entirely on cooked food.

To those long accustomed to highly flavored food, salads will at first seem tasteless, but a liking for them comes with use.

Salad should be very carefully washed in several changes of clean water. This is essential. Instead washing the leaves should be well picked over and inspected.

Leaves should be torn, not cut. When done, they can be allowed to soak for an hour, or overnight, but not longer, in cold water, to which a little lemon-juice has been added to increase the crispness of the leaves.

The Japanese use the petals of many flowers for salads. Chrysanthemums, stocks, violets, roses, nasturtiums and dandelions are excellent. Nasturtiums and dandelions are especially good as they possess strong antitoxic powers.

YES, RESINOL CERTAINLY DOES STOP ECZEMA

Are you an eczema sufferer? Do those ugly patches of eruption start up and itch as though they would drive you frantic? And have you tried treatment after treatment with, at best, only temporary relief? Then you are only going through the experience of thousands of others who at last found that Resinol healed their skin right for good.

With the first use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap the itching and burning usually stop, and soon all trace of eczema or similar torturing skin-trouble disappears, even in severe and stubborn cases. Doctors have prescribed the Resinol treatment for twenty years. Sold by all druggists. Samples free. Dept. 2-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

ALK AND RUN, TO BE STRONG, SAYS WILLARD

By JESS WILLARD.

(Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt. All Rights Reserved.)

MY JOB is almost done. Tomorrow I'm going to begin on the story of the fight itself. In today's article I want to say a last word about the thing called "training."

In some of my articles I have described various exercises for the development of wind and muscles. I used them because the development of strength and endurance was my business. And I still recommend these exercises to men who are penned up in city offices and who haven't the money or opportunity to go in for out-of-door sports.

But the boys and men who can get out into the open, I say that all necessary health and strength can be given by walking and running. I have four children and I expect to have them grow up into perfect physical specimens by nothing more strenuous than open air exercise.

As the boys get to be ten I mean to put boxing gloves on them, but more to develop character than anything else.

Boxing teaches a lot of things that a boy needs in life. Good temper, gameness, open eyes, quick thinking, hard hitting, fair play, quickness to take advantage of an opening—sparring gives all of them.

But aside from boxing, I'm going to have my little gang out in the open and always on their legs. My experience with the Indians and my experience in prize fighting has made me believe that fresh air and leg motion are all that anyone needs for health and strength and happiness.

The Indians I knew were wonders physically, except the ones that got to drinking. And they got their strength by nothing else than running. I never saw a dumb bell or Indian club until long after I was twenty-one and I got my arm and speed by walking and foot-racing.

The best training that Jeffries ever did was bear hunting. In none of his Eastern fights was he ever in good condition, because he went in for training quarters work too much.

But out in California, where he could get up into the mountains on hunts, he never failed to enter "being in the shape of his life. The long tramps made him as hard as an oak and as quick as a mountain lion.

The first trainer of prize fighters—and in many ways the greatest—was Captain Robert Barclay.

He was a very wealthy man and his great hobby was a higher standard of physical manhood for his country. The thing that he preached was nothing more than walking and in order to prove his theory he trained Champion Cribb for his last great battle with Molineux, the black.

Up to that time the only idea of training was slugging and wrestling and weight lifting. When Captain Barclay took hold of Cribb the champion weighed 224 pounds and had given up all hope of getting in shape. For two weeks Cribb was made to walk around the Ury woods, taking it easy, but keeping at it, and at the end of the two weeks Captain Barclay began to take him on ten-mile jaunts over the hills.

In a month the daily walk was increased to twenty miles, the last quarter of a mile being run at top speed. After four weeks of this, the distance was pushed up to thirty miles a day and the last mile was a sprint.

At the end of eleven weeks Cribb was down to 190 pounds and was in the shape of his life. The fancy thought that Captain Barclay was crazy and the odds were against Cribb before he went into the ring.

But when the champion stripped and they saw what had happened, the noble lords couldn't hedge their bets fast enough. Cribb whipped the black in 19 minutes, although it had taken him 55 minutes to win the first fight.

Cribb's victory was also a victory for Captain Barclay. The new style of training was taken up, not only by prize fighters, but by the English boys, and cross-country running became all the go.

Captain Barclay's usual rate of traveling on foot was six miles an hour, and it was a poor day for him when he didn't do fifteen or twenty miles.

When he was twenty years old he astonished England by walking 106 miles in two days. When he was twenty-two he won a bet of 1,000 by walking ninety miles in 21½ hours.

In 1808, when he was twenty-nine, Captain Barclay made a bet of 5,000 that he could walk a thousand consecutive hours—he to walk one mile in each and every hour. He started out at midnight on June 1 and won the bet on July 12, finishing with 19 minutes to spare.

Over $500,000 was bet on the event and England was more excited over it than any prize fight ever held. Newmarket Heath, where he was to finish, was mobbed and jammed by people on the last day, and ropes had to be stretched and guarded by troops.

Captain Barclay's point was that any man could reach the strength and endurance of a horse by daily walking. He certainly proved it in his case, for in spite of all his tremendous matches, he lived to be seventy-nine years old and never had a sick day in all his life.

Please don't get the idea that I am urging every man and every boy to run or walk twenty-five miles a day. All that I am trying to do is to show that leg motion out in the open is the best form of physical exercise that can be taken.

Try it for a mile or two a day at first. Go to slowly and carefully. By no means keep it up until you are fagged out. Exhaustion is as much of a body poison as prussic acid.

Take it easy, boys, but take it regularly. One mile a day for thirty days beats thirty miles in thirty. Don't try to begin where Shalaon leaves off.

G. O. P. RIVALS OPEN BUSY WEEK.

Samuel W. McCall and Grafton D. Cushing put on their marathon legs today for what they term "the busiest week in the campaign."

They go tomorrow to Gloucester, where at the annual Gloucester Day celebration at Stage Fort Park, they will hold out the merits of their respective candidacies to the voters.

Wednesday will find them both at Spring Lake at the outing of the Republicans of the Fourth Middlesex Senatorial District.

The Saturday outing of the Essex Club at Swampscott will again find them pleading for support at the primaries.

McCall's energetic press agent informed the newspapers today that the former congressman will meet the leaders of the McCall fight in Gloucester and vicinity at tomorrow's outing to ascertain what progress has been made in his campaign.

The little rift of excitement caused by Edward P. Barry's declaration that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, if his candidacy was regarded unfavorably by Governor Walsh died down to day. Mr. Barry will be a candidate. He and Governor Walsh are personal friends, but the Governor, very wisely will refrain from making any statement that might be construed by his Republican enemies as an effort to dominate the State ticket.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in the last hour after having ranged higher from the start. The advance of U. S. Steel was a factor of importance and led to considerable covering.

Among afternoon gains in New York were United States Steel 2, Allis-Chalmers ¼, American Can 2½, American Car & Foundry 2¾, American Locomotive 2¾, Baldwin 1, Crucible 1¾, General Electric 3¾, Gen. Motors 3, Pressed Steel 2¼, Republic Iron 2, Studebaker 2½, Westinghouse 2¼, Colorado Fuel 2¾, Tennessee Copper 2¾, Great Northern ore 1½, Maxwell 2¾, Anaconda 1¾, Utah ¾, Chino ¾, Rock Island 1, Union Pacific ¾, St. Paul ¾, Southern Pacific ¾, Northern Pacific ½, Lehigh Valley 1, Chesapeake & Ohio ½, Canadian Pacific ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¾, Atchison ¾, Beet Sugar 2½ and American Sugar 2¾.

Among declines were Willys-Overland 5 and General Motors 1. Early in the day Willys-Overland had been one of the strongest issues, it then showing a five-point gain.

Among advances in Boston were Butte and Superior 1¾, American Zinc ⅞, Copper Range ⅝, Granby ¼, Mohawk 1½, Tamarack 1⅜, Superior & U. S. Smelting ⅝, United Fruit ⅝, and Island Creek ⅜. Recessions included American Woolen, preferred and Calumet and Arizona ¾.

Sterling exchange touched the new record figure of 4.84½ today, but recovered to 4.66 when it was announced that J. P. Morgan was in his office for the first time since he was shot. It opened at 4.66, a big decline since Saturday. Exchange on France touched a point where six francs, formerly valued at about $1.23, were worth only $1 in American money. Exchange rates are expected to remain weak until the British government arranges for a large loan in this country. It is said this step will be taken with the greatest reluctance. Great Britain fears it will lose prestige throughout the world by such a move. Stocks opened on a higher level with most of the activity in war order issues, there being the usual rumors about large contracts. They were helped by the administration's notification to Austria that exportation of munitions will be stopped by the United States.

Among issues to sell at record high prices were Crucible and Studebaker. Among others to sell at their highest for the or several years were Goodrich, American Can, Westinghouse, Beet Sugar, Car and Foundry and Tennessee Copper. Speculative interest centred upon war stocks, but the majority of individual advances among the copper rules stronger. Prices were on a higher level at the opening and only a few issues failed to cause much of a reaction. Offerings were quickly absorbed. Trading in the steel list was heavy. It made a substantial gain. The public showed more activity in the market and some buying indicated participation by some very important interests. The volume of business was large.

There was some improvement in the London metal market as regards copper quotations, they showing the largest gain since the outbreak of the war. Spot was up 17s 6d and futures 11. But electrolytic declined 15. There was no change in the tone of the metal market in New York.

SEEKS NEW LAW TO ROUND UP AUTOISTS

The crusade against drunken auto drivers took a new turn today when Representative Roland D. Sawyer, the clergyman-legislator of Ware, declared he intended to file a bill with the next Legislature compelling court officials to submit records of court convictions to the Massachusetts Highway Commission within forty-eight hours of the trial.

The purpose of this bill is to secure summary punishment for drunken and reckless drivers, whose punishment is now often delayed by the dilatory tactics of court clerks.

Representative Sawyer will also file a separate bill to establish a new law providing that when a driver speeds away without stopping to learn the result of an injury his act shall be taken as prima facie evidence of his guilt in manslaughter.

This second bill will also provide that the injured person shall be entitled to triple damages.

Attorney Lawrence G. Brooks, representing the Highway Safety League, issued a statement today in which he declared that the highway commission was devoting too much time to the construction of good roads and too little to making the roads safe for autoists and pedestrians. Declaring that "it is a fearful year for fatalities and accidents," Attorney Brooks shows that the highway commission recognized the danger of reckless driving five years ago, but its records indicate that it has accomplished nothing to improve conditions. Says Mr. Brooks:

"A good many taxpayers are wondering what is the use of spending millions upon roads which are not safe to use."

Mrs. William H. Conway of Quincy, whose husband was killed by an auto driver who sped on without waiting to ascertain the injury, spoke a plaintive appeal today. Mrs. Conway is left the sole support of four young children.

"I hold no malice against the driver," she said. "Accidents are often unavoidable. I do wish that the driver of the car which killed my husband could realize no to procure work that I may support my children."

The AMERICAN has received contributions for the unfortunate widow and mother.

Light Board Applies Rule Against Aliens

John Collins of Wakefield has been informed that his application for a position at the Municipal Gas plant, which has been turned down by the Light Board because of his "lack of qualifications." This action follows the campaign of several Wakefield citizens to oust all aliens from the city's employ. Collins, who lives on Summer street, cited the so-called "preference" law to the board in his application but the board ruled that the ordinance cited, being no number, were not in conflict with the policy of the law as the aliens referred to by Collins were not in the unskilled class, and were paid wages as skilled mechanics.

Guaranteed Rupture Holder On 60 Days Trial

Won't Cost You a Cent If the Two Months' Test Doesn't Prove All Our Claims

Away With Worthless Trusses Like These

You can make a thorough prove-it-to-yourself test of this guaranteed rupture holder without having to risk a single cent. Well send it to you for sixty days' trial—practically put it in your home—just try it for yourself how it takes all the misery out of being ruptured.

It doesn't keep your ruptures from coming out or bothering you in any way. In spite of any work you do or any other strain—then it won't slip.

The Only Thing Good Enough to Stand Such a Test

You know as well as we that a mere trifle—known as a finger-test—will positively prove whether a truss or anything else for rupture is going to do any good.

Neither is just a few days' trial a safe test. A true or so-called "appliance" may seem all right the first week or so and then turn out to be a failure.

But you can't possibly make a mistake after sixty days' trial.

And there is only one thing of any kind for rupture that will stand such a long trial—

Only one thing good enough to stand such a long and severe test.

That is our guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Cluthe.

Will Send On New Principle

The Cluthe is so radically different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents based on an absolutely new principle—far more than just a truss.

It has so thoroughly proved its merits in nearly 200,000 cases that surgeons in the U. S. Army and Navy and physicians in all nearly every world now recommend it instead of advising operation.

Will Save You from Operation

A rupture can't possibly be relieved—can't even be kept from growing worse—unless protected against all strains and constantly kept from coming out. Just as a broken bone can't knit unless done evenly held together.

And that is the curse of wearing elastic or spring trusses—not one in twenty ever holds successfully—they cannot—for it makes operation absolutely necessary instead of preventing it.

But remember, the Cluthe is guaranteed to hold—and it won't cost you a cent if it doesn't. And, in addition, it provides the only way ever discovered to overcome the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

It does that entirely automatically—without any interference whatever from you. And has thus brought complete recovery to thousands of cases that seemed almost hopeless, and has saved thousands of others from the need to ever submit to the surgeon's knife.

No Belt, No Leg-Straps, No Springs

The Cluthe does away entirely with the curse of wearing belts, leg-straps and springs. Practically you have tried it as far as comfortable as their clothing. And it is entirely unnoticed—will not chafe. And is perspiration-proof. Easily kept clean.

Get World's Greatest Rupture Book

Don't send any money—don't take any risk—just write for our free book and find out about this wonderful invention—the only one-piece, self-adjusting, appliance and 23 photographic illustrations of facts for the ruptured never before put in print.

It shows why elastic and spring trusses are a crime—how they are the ruptured man's worst enemy—and why they cannot stop their ails.

It exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," etc.

It tells why operation for rupture ends in permanent weakness or death oftener than it ever brings relief.

And it tells all about the famous Cluthe, gives names and addresses of a few well-known people in all parts of the country who have worn the Cluthe and voluntarily endorsed it. And tells how you can get it on our 60-day trial, and how it is sent entirely prepaid in plain wrapper.

Simply send us your name or say in a letter or postal "Send me your free book." It will take only a minute, but may be the means of freeing you from all rupture troubles for the rest of your life.

PASTOR FAVORS EMBARGO ON MUNITIONS

The sending of ammunition from America to the warring nations of Europe stirred up a discussion today at an informal conference of ministers in Tremont Temple.

The Rev. Dr. Duncan MacPhie, secretary of the Evangelical Alliance of Greater Boston, read a circular which has been sent all the Boston ministers by the Rev. Dr. Walter Rauschenbusch, a Baptist professor in the Rochester Theological Seminary, New York.

Among other things the circular said:

"We should prohibit the exportation of arms and ammunition. On the grounds of humanity we should refuse to feed the conflagration of civilization to secure financial profit for ourselves. On the ground of public policy, we should prevent the further growth of social forces directly interested in the continuance and spread of war."

The statement of the professor as read called forth a reply from the Rev. Dr. Robert F. MacArthur of New York.

Dr. MacArthur said:

"We have a perfect right to furnish munitions to these nations. Germany furnished munitions to the nations engaged in the Boer war.

"If the United States were now to become involved in war with Mexico or with Germany, we would be obliged to secure munitions from various foreign countries."

Here's a Live Fliver Story From Brockton

BROCKTON, Aug. 16.—Why invent stories about flivver cars when this actually happened here. Emmanuel Sousa, who works for E. D. Dunbar of Bridgewater, was in town in Dunbar's auto. Sousa stopped the flivver at Coleman and Allen's on Perkins avenue to telephone his boss, leaving the car in the street.

Sousa came out in time to see the flivver rolling driverless up street. He sprinted for it. The car raced him merrily, just out of reach and shedding a nut or bolt or some other trimming every now and then.

Two miles out the flivver headed for an oncoming watering wagon. The waterwagon driver stopped and disappeared in the woods.

The flivver hit the wagon and stopped.

Owner Dunbar said later he was proud of his self-starting, self-driving flivver.

Mine Damaged Ship with U. S. Cargo

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 16.—At a maritime court of inquiry into the damage done to the Norwegian tank steamship Mariopia in the North Sea while on a voyage from Port Arthur, Tex., to Holland, Captains Borgersen and Stewart Haviland, for the insurance company, agreed the injuries were caused, not by torpedoing, but by the explosion of a mine.

2 WHITMAN BOYS INJURED BY DYNAMITE

WHITMAN, Aug. 16.—Two Whitman boys were injured today, one probably fatally, by the explosion of a stick of dynamite with which they were playing here. The injured are:

Stewart Reardon, aged ten, who lives on Webster street, three wounds in stomach. Dangerous list, Brockton Hospital.

George Porter, Jr., aged nine, Webster street, right hand badly mangled.

The boys found the dynamite, and not realizing its danger were playing around the car line right at the boundary post on Webster street. The explosion knocked them down and startled the town. The percussion can be heard across the street and through the window of the Whitman News. George Dorr, publisher, was at his desk. The cap struck within a few feet of him.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Two "Colonels" and "Scriptures".

NOTHING was more natural or more interesting than "Colonel" Roosevelt and "Colonel" Bryan—both colonels, the one of bloody El Caney and the other of Tampa's tranquil sky—should have come to intellectual blows at San Francisco.

There, on the soft Pacific slope, these anti-pacific elements met, but refused to mingle.

The evangel of war on any pretence and the apostle of peace at any price, the "Colonel" of gore and the "Colonel" of grape juice, the "Colonel" of blood and iron and the "Colonel" of milk and water, the "Colonel" of war and the "Colonel" of wind, appeared out there at the great exposition to expose each other. It is so far almost the exposition's greatest show.

The "Colonel" of conciliation, seeking to place his constitutional adversary at a disadvantage, attacks the "Colonel" of conflict with the wide-mouthed mortars of oratory and the overwhelming missiles of Holy Writ.

Says "Colonel" Bryan: "There is a phrase about speaking softly, but carrying a big stick. The man responsible for that phrase never found it in the Bible."

"Colonel" Roosevelt is on the road and "Colonel" Bryan is on the beach, but if "Colonel" Roosevelt were in touch with a concordance and with his adversary he would be sure to say: "Of course, the exact phrase of mine which 'Colonel' Bryan quotes is not to be found in the Bible, but there are a great many phrases much more warlike than this one which are to be found in the Bible."

And this appears to be true. For in Ecclesiastes iii. 8 we find the quotation, "There is a time of war and a time of peace." And in Ezekiel xxi. 5 we find the quotation, "I the Lord have drawn forth my sword out of his sheath."

Possibly "Colonel" Bryan, in his usual vague and visionary manner, intended to confine his Scriptural quotations to the New Testament, and especially to the utterances of Christ, for in a slashing assault he declares "The big stick was not mentioned by Christ at all."

But in answer to this "Colonel" Roosevelt might quote the words of Christ, Matthew x. 34, "I came not to send peace, but a sword."

If this newspaper were selected as the referee in this Biblical debate between two such distinguished military characters it would say, "True enough, there are no references to the big stick in the teachings of Jesus, nor are there any references to the big voice, nor to the big head, but there are very definite references by Christ to the big bank account, and very positive injunctions to part with it for the benefit of the poor."

Therefore, if the "Colonel" of peace is to hold the "Colonel" of preparedness so very closely and strictly to the exact words of the Bible and to the letter and spirit of the teachings of Jesus, then "Colonel" Bryan himself should be ready and willing to be held as closely and strictly to the letter and spirit of all such divine injunctions.

"Colonel" Bryan cannot possibly have read the Scriptures so carelessly as to have forgotten that prosperous man, for all we know of the early Chautauquas, described in Luke xviii. 21, who came to Jesus asking how he might inherit eternal life, and Jesus, having heard the enumeration of all his good deeds, enjoined him to "sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in Heaven."

Nor can the great peace protagonist, panoplied in Scriptural text, fail to recall that other New Testament utterance, Matthew xix. 24, "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of God."

Will not "Colonel" Bryan then give evidence of the sincerity of his sentiments and the genuineness of his willingness to follow in every particular the Scriptural injunctions which he so freely offers to others—or, rather, so frequently offers to others, since nothing is free with "Colonel" Bryan?

Will our modern prosperous man of the Chautauquas, accumulating wealth at the rate of two hundred and fifty shekels per hour, also bring forth fruits meet for repentance?

The Bible is a good guide, but he who would guide others by it must himself be guided by it.

Will "Colonel" Bryan sell all that he has, or one-half, or even a minute fraction of what the gate receipts have piled up on him, and distribute it to the poor? Or will he cease for a single season his eager and unrelenting pursuit of the almighty dollar, so that his Scriptural rebukes to his fellow-citizen and fellow-"Colonel" for not following the exact letter of Jesus' teachings can come with greater force and effect?

If "Colonel" Bryan is not himself willing to follow the teachings of the Bible his constant quotation of the Bible would seem to be merely the effusion and affectation of smug hypocrisy. And here, again, the words of Christ can be quoted to his confusion—Matthew vii. 5: "Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye."

WITH ALL HIS FAULTS

My pa gets wages by the week
because he helps to run a store;
Ma says if he was not so meek
his pay would be a whole lot more;
She tells him he was never meant to be a leader in the strife;
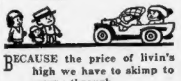
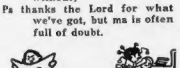
Sometimes she's full of discontent and can't find any joy in life.



BECAUSE the price of livin's high we have to skimp to worry through.
And never can afford to buy the costly things our neighbors do;
Most all the time ma wants a lot of things she gets along without;
Pa thanks the Lord for what we've got, but ma is often full of doubt.



I WISH my pa could find some way to get to be a millionaire,
Or earn a whole lot higher pay, so ma could have fine things to wear;
She says he's just a mere machine—I know she wouldn't trade him, though,
For any pa we've ever seen, because she's often told me so.

Almost Sensational

"I have a ripping idea for a moving picture film."

"Let's have it. Ripping ideas are scarce."

"Show a young woman doing the housework while her mother is sitting on the porch manicuring her nails."

"The trouble with you," her husband said, "is that you make mountains out of molehills."

"I don't do anything of the kind," she replied. "I want you to understand that my mother brought me up to be a lady, and I know nothing about housework. I never made a mountain out of a molehill in my life. I am perfectly helpless in a kitchen."

A woman is never as old as the women who are jealous of her tell one another she looks.

Nightmare

"I dreamed about you last night," he said.

"Oh, did you?" she asked. "What did you dream about me?"

"That you had threatened to become my wife."

The luckiest man in the world is the one who can ride a hobby to success.

The man who wishes to find fault never has to go far from home to discover it.

Problem of the Young Girl

By Belle J. McDonald

Vice-Chairman of Home Economics of the International Child Welfare League

I AM a most earnest champion of compulsory vocational training for many reasons, but chiefly because it solves the problem of the young girl.

As I have gone to the Florence Crittenton and other shelters for unfortunate young girls, lecturing to them, I have seen little girls, for they were nothing else, to whom as school inspector of the Health Department I had a few years before given working papers. When I asked them the reason for adopting so dreadful a life, every one wept and said:

"There was nothing else for us to do. We couldn't keep a place at housework, because we didn't know how to do the work well and were discharged. When we tried to work in a store we couldn't earn more than $3 or $4 a week. We couldn't live on that."

I would urge that compulsory vocational training be begun in the fifth and sixth grades of the public schools. A good foundation could thus be laid and the work completed in the seventh and eighth grades without any neglect of the essential "three Rs."

For the last two years I would have three hours a day every week devoted to vocational training, whereby girls would be thoroughly taught cooking, sweeping, dusting, fine laundry work, bedmaking and sewing. These would prepare her to take intelligent care of her own home if she married, and would enable her to earn an honest living in the home of another or in a dressmaking shop.

Statistics prove only one-half per cent. of the girls found in shelters for the unfortunates were able to support themselves, and their inability was largely due to lack of proper training in the schools.

The extravagance of our manner of living in this country has caused mothers to become careless. "Why teach Jennie housework when we are able to keep servants. When she marries, her husband will be able to do the same." Since mothers are shortsighted and improvident, the school boards should not be.

Long experience as inspector for the Board of Health of New York city forced upon me the truth that not only were mothers indifferent about training their children in household matters, but they themselves did not know how to order their households. It is, for example, a very common practice for housewives to waste their mornings in gossip or fritter away the hours in mismanaged work and send their children to the delicatessen to buy dinner. Thus they double the expense, besides providing their families with food that does not nourish, or that insufficiently nourishes.

In the great movement for Child Welfare the greatest problem is that of the young girl. Our girls are the potential mothers of the race, and as such they should be educated. Marriage and motherhood are what they look forward to if they are normal girls. A change from the abnormality of the present attitude of so many toward the home can be slowly brought about by vocational training.

Included in vocational training should be knowledge of food and clothes values and how to make a dollar go farthest in the matters of marketing and shopping.

For lack of vocational training of the wife the family may eventually become a community charge.

Put Yourself in His Place If You Would Know a Child

By Dorothy Dix

THIS is the day of faddists in child raising, and opinions seem to be pretty equally divided between those who believe, with the surly old bachelor, that the best way is to put 'em in a barrel until they are twenty-one and feed 'em, and those who have embraced the theory that a child is a mysterious problem that nothing but the inspired wisdom of a Mothers' Congress can solve.

Oddly enough, no one seems to have thought of dealing with children on the plane of a common humanity, with common impulses and passions with grown-ups—of putting themselves in a child's place, and trying to see how they would feel and act under certain conditions.

Take, for example, the matter of openly remarking in his presence on a child's looks and manners, which is one of the common occurrences of every day. Who could endure to be scrutinized by their dear five hundred friends and listen to their unbiased judgment passed upon his faults and foibles? We should consider it a torture worthy of the Inquisition. Fancy being told to your face that your eyes are too small, or your feet too large, or your complexion horrid!

How Would You Like to Hear Your Peculiarities Criticized?

How would you like to hear some one exclaim, "Mercy, what an awkward, overgrown creature!" or, "Dear me, almost a dwarf, isn't she? And what skinny little arms!" In our inmost souls we may suspect—even know—we possess these defects, but to suspect them and hear them put into blunt words are two different things.

I have not a doubt that the most popular and admired among us would die of chagrin if we knew our neighbors' real opinions of us, and that's the reason we have entered into a tacit mutual protection association that makes us only say disagreeable things about people behind their backs.

We show no such mercy to children. We think nothing of discussing Johnny and Susie's lack of brightness or good looks right before them, and when the poor little victims writhe under it we simply add one more black mark against them and set it down to temper.

In some families it is considered a good joke to tease children before company. People who engage in this pastime are living a few centuries too late. It is a species of cruelty that would have fitted them to shine in the dear old Indian days when they stuck splinters in a helpless fellow-creature and then set them afire.

The home is the child's world. Its praise is his fame. Its blame is his disgrace. To be held up to its ridicule and flayed with its gibes is just to him what it would be to you to feel that you had made yourself the butt and laughing stock of the whole country.

Only the man and woman who have been pilloried and caricatured in the public press—who have been made to seem like fools when they knew they were not—can realize the dumb and impotent rage that possesses a child under such an ordeal. I have yet to meet a grown person with so keen a sense of fun that he enjoyed a joke on himself, and we have no right to expect a little child to be that kind of a humorist.

Then consider for a moment how you would like to be nagged at all day. Suppose somebody corrected you every time you made a slip in grammar or used a word of slang. Suppose almost every remark that was addressed to you began with "don't"—don't sing in the house, don't make so much noise, don't sit with your feet stretched out, don't touch the books, don't do this, don't do that. Suppose your husband, who, you know, loves you dearly and is simply doing it for your own good, kept your faults continually before you, and reminded you of them about a thousand times a day, what would you do?

I know. You would be suing him for divorce and alimony by the end of the second week, and any Judge in the country would say that if ever a woman was justified and had a righteous cause, you had.

But that's the way we pick on poor little Johnny and Susie, and the more we love them, and the more anxious we are, and the more we feel our responsibilities, the more we do it.

Is it any wonder they get hardened to our reproofs and indifferent to our opinions? Children's faults have to be corrected, of course, but it is always the one word in season, said with as much tact as one would use in suggesting a mistake that he was making to a friend, that works the cure. Nagging never yet did anything but harm. Sooner or later the badgered animal always turns and fights.

Then there is the matter of promises. When a grown person makes you a promise you expect him to keep it, and have a pretty poor opinion of him if he doesn't, but not one individual in a hundred has the slightest conscience or honor about keeping their word to a child.

I have known people to make the most reckless promises to children, promising ponies, and carts, and monkeys, and talking dolls—promises that I knew at the time they hadn't the slightest intention in the world of making good—and then I have seen the weary waiting of the child.

Sometimes fate does something very like that for us grown-ups, but when that has followed the will o' the wisp of a hope that represented his heart's desire, and then seen it fade away into the nothingness of lost illusions can want to darken childhood with such bitter knowledge?

When It is Necessary, Punish Children and Then Drop Matter

Another place where mothers might try the experiment of putting themselves in their children's places is when Johnny and Susie appear in the role of diminutive lawbreakers. All of us know that the most aggravating thing in life is in having our past mistakes and offenses thrown up to us, and it makes us mad through and through to be continually reminded of them. "For heaven's sake," we cry, "let that rest! It is all done with and settled, and there isn't a bit of use in golfing over it again and harrowing everything up."

This is precisely the attitude a mother ought to take with her children. When Johnny and Susie are naughty and have to be punished, settle the question right then and there, according to the lights given you, and then have done with it forever. Don't drag it up again in cold blood, and have it all over again.

Even the law extends us that mercy. When we have faced our crime and had it out with the judge and jury—and the mother is both, and executioner to boot—it is settled, and not kept dangling like the sword of Damocles over our heads. Many mothers consider it their duty to keep a record of the children's misdoings to tell their father when he comes home at night. This is all a mistake. It worries the man, and as far as the child is concerned is an afterclap of judgment that he doesn't deserve. Once you have meted out the punishment, forget and forgive the crime.

"Remember not our transgressions against us," is the prayer that all erring humanity makes to its God, and the mercy we ask for ourselves we may well show to the little culprit whose happiness or woe lies in our smiles or frowns.
